New Call Comes From Gandhi As Sons Are Jailed

Mahatma Appeals to His Followers in India to Increase Non-violence Campaign; Cities Where Riots Were Seen Yesterday Comparatively Quiet To-day; Two Gandhis Sent to Prison for Three Months.

Canadian Press
Bombay, India, April 17.—As his two sons were being cast into prison at New Delhi to-day, Mahatma Gandhi called upon his Nationalist followers for even more intense non-violent resistance to British authority. Already police had been forced to use gun-fire to disperse mobs in Karachi, Bombay, Poona and Calcutta, across the breadth of India.

Three months' simple imprisonment was the sentence imposed to-day on Davi Das and Shanker Lal, sons of Gandhi. With ten others, to whom rigorous imprisonment for three months was meted-out, the Gandhis were jailed for violation of the salt law in connection with their father's campaign of civil disobedience.

CITIES COMPARATIVELY QUIET

Comparative quiet reigned to-day in the cities where riots broke out Tuesday and yesterday, in which one was killed and more than 100 injured. Governor Sir Stanley Jackson, absent for a time, has returned to Calcutta to take charge of the situation. A total of thirty-five have been arrested in South Calcutta.

In Bombay stray donkeys were pressed into the propaganda campaign for civil disobedience. Volunteers of the all-India National Congress dressed the animals in European costumes, including hats, and paraded the streets, asking the public to throw off all their foreign clothes and wear only pure khaddar (homespun).

HEAT OF BATTLE

"If we are to stand the final heat of battle," stated Gandhi in his exhortation for more active pursuit of his theories, "we must learn to stand our ground in the face of cavalry and baton charges. We must allow ourselves to be trampled under horses' hooves and bruised by baton blows."

His appeal was contained in an editorial in Young India, his newspaper, under the head, "A Survey."

HON. J. H. KING VISITOR TO-DAY IN VANCOUVER

Minister of Health Spends Brief Time During Commons Recess in B.C.

Says Return of Western Natural Resources Big Step Forward

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 17.—Legislation of the current session at Parliament has constituted one of the most important accomplishments in many years, stated Hon. J. H. King, Minister of National Health and Pensions, on his arrival here to-day.

The measures for the return of the natural resources to the western provinces and the adjustment of subsidies were all before parliament, thus closing out a matter that had been a live topic of controversy ever since the days of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

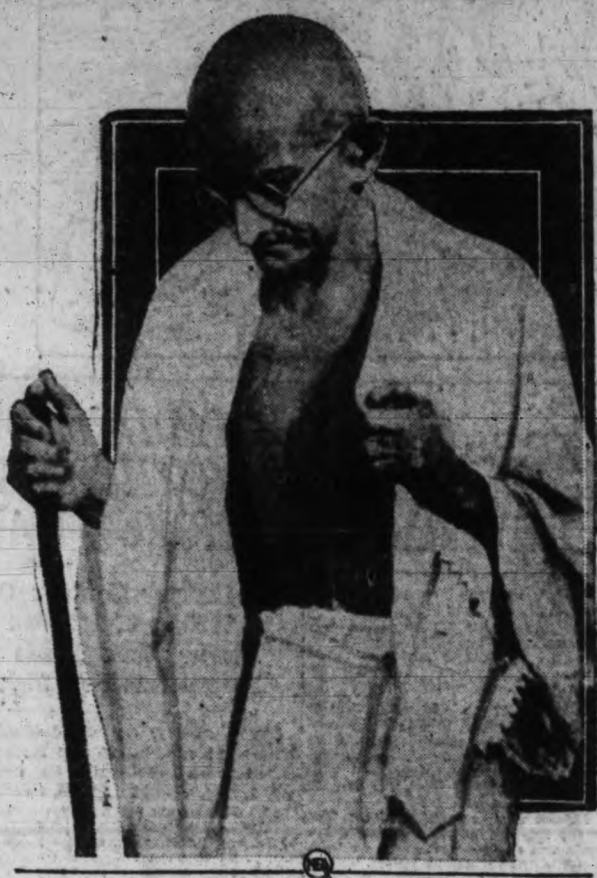

FOR THREE DAYS

Dr. King is in the city for three days. He took advantage of the Easter recess to visit his constituency of East Kootenay and to come to the coast. A summons back to Ottawa for a Cabinet meeting April 24 compelled him to change his plans to-day, so that instead of visiting Victoria he will remain in this city until Saturday and then leave directly for the capital.

The Minister was bombarded with inquiries about the possibilities of an election. "The matter has not been considered," he replied without even smiling. But he added the political situation was good and the government's outlook quite satisfactory if a contest should take place.

LORDS YIELD IN COMMONS TEST ON ARMY

British Second Chamber Does Not Insist on Death Penalty Clause

Interest Centres in Incident Because of Growing Firmness of House

Canadian Press
London, April 17.—The House of Lords decided this forenoon not to insist upon retention of the death penalty for cowardice and desertion in the British army, abandoning its amendment to the army and air force annual bill which vetoed the House of Commons abolition of that punishment.

The Lords Tuesday passed the amendment with a slender majority, but had the bill sent back to them for reconsideration by the Commons last night with the amendment rejected by a vote of 194 to fifty. After a short discussion of the measure this morning and the decision to abandon the amendment the Lords adjourned until April 29 for its Easter holiday.

The army and air force bill now will become a law in the form it originally passed in the Commons, with its clauses abolishing the death penalty for cowardice, desertion and other lesser offences intact.

Unusual interest attached to the clash between the House of Lords and the House of Commons because of the growing attitude of the Commons that the Lords lack the power of veto to an act of the House of Commons.

HAPPY DAYS HERE AGAIN FOR PUPILS

Schools Break Up To-day For Ten-day Easter Vacation

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of— but thoughts of ten days' freedom from school tasks are uppermost in the minds of the youth of Victoria at the present time.

Slugging away at books and studies is bad enough at any time of the year, but in the spring when the buds are peeping forth, the birds are starting to sing and everything is turning green under the influence of genial Old Sol, minds begin to wander from historical dates and mathematical problems and tousled heads turn lazily to gaze at window-wards.

That is why Easter holidays provide such a welcome break for school students before the hard grind down the home stretch to the annual examinations and summer vacation.

Six thousand Victoria pupils to-day kissed their schoolbooks au revoir and skipped homeward joyous and happy over the prospect of the ten days' holiday which comes at this time of year. The vacation will end on April 26, however, and they planned to make the most of it while it lasts.

The Easter break-up probably holds more fun for the younger students because it is the time when Easter rabbits, chocolate eggs and candies bring thrills to the kiddies' hearts. They have been busy for weeks cutting out paper baskets and chickens which they carried proudly to mother to-day.

To the older students it means the end of the Easter examinations and just a little more time to spend at play and pleasure.

Just the same school won't beirked for school days who would appreciate holidays?

Vancouver Youth and Man Taken After Chase, Auto Collision and Fight

Spectacular Street Affair Results From Injuring of Detective Yesterday

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 17.—Following an all-night search which extended to every district in this city, police captured two of an alleged gang of seven youths who, it is charged, on Wednesday afternoon ran down and injured Detective George Lefler when he attempted to arrest them in a stolen car.

The driver of the car, a youth who escaped from the juvenile detention home Tuesday with two other boys, and a man who gave the name of Chuck Brown, no fixed address, were placed under arrest and charged with auto theft.

The arrests were made after a chase through the Grandview District, during which the youths, riding in a stolen car, collided with a police powder auto and turned over twice. Five of the gang escaped from the overturned auto, but in a hand-to-hand battle two of the youths were captured.

The youth who was driving had an artery in his foot severed and was removed to the General Hospital, where he was placed under police guard.

Vancouver, April 17.—Twenty persons were known to have lost their lives and 5,000 were homeless late to-night as the sawmill fire at Cadix, province of Occidental Negroes, was brought under control after burning two days.

The American Chamber of Commerce said the plant was the largest hardwood lumber mill in the world. It was established twenty years ago by the late former state senator, J. Blon Fawcett, of Elmira, N.Y., who was one of the earliest United States investors in the Orient. It was owned chiefly by the Fawcett and Edgemoor interests of Elmira.

TEST CASE ON MARKET ACT

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 17.—The British Columbia Court of Appeal to-day granted leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada to H. S. Wood, K.C., counsel for A. C. Lawson, fruit rancher whose case, known as the "Market Act" case, is being argued before the court.

The court is to decide whether the Market Act, which was passed by the B.C. Legislature in 1926, is valid.

NEW AIR FLEET WILL FLY TRIANGLE RUN

Alex Holden Heads Second Victoria-Mainland Flying Boat Service

California Air Transportation Men Are Backing Enterprise

A second fast flying boat service to cover the triangular run between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, with boats leaving here every few hours during the day, is to be put into operation this summer, it was learned to-day.

As the executive head of the new air transportation service is Alex Holden, a former Victoria boy, who learned his flying in the war and recently has been one of the executive heads of the Alaska-Washington Airways, which operates a fleet of flying boats on the Victoria-Seattle-Vancouver triangular run and also from the Sound to Alaska.

Behind Mr. Holden in the new company is a group of California air transportation men, who are out to break into the air transportation business on this part of the coast.

The new flying fleet which will be in operation here within a few weeks will consist of Leaning flying boats, each manned by two pilots, and carrying eight passengers.

GOOD FRIDAY WILL SEE BIG CONGREGATIONS IN LONDON

By THOMAS CHAMPTON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, April 17.—"The temper of the age is not friendly to spiritual ministry of any kind," declared Sir Rev. Herbert H. Henson, Bishop of Durham, yesterday evening. "It is a disillusioned and sceptical temper, which finds it difficult to attach any importance to the things of the spirit."

Nevertheless practically all the newspapers of importance in England to-day contributed special articles or editorials on the religious significance of Good Friday. Doubtless as in former years there will be huge congregations at St. Paul's and Westminster Abbey to-morrow.

OLD CUSTOM
The customary Maundy Thursday distribution of the King's Maundy Money was carried out at St. Paul's to-day. Specially minted silver pennies, two-pennies, three-pennies and four-pennies totaling sixty-five pennies in each, (about $1.00), along with an allowance of clothing, were distributed to sixty-five poor men and women by officials of the Royal Almonry. The significance of the sixty-five is that the King will be sixty-five years of age in June.

Up to the times of the Stuarts these distributions were made by the King personally. The pennies are of course sought by coin collectors to ever get into general circulation. The fortunate recipients can dispose of them for much more than their face value.

$1,000,000 Arena Offered Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, April 17.—A $1,000,000 arena to seat 15,000 will be built in the union terminal area by P. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, railroad magnates, if local promoters succeed in procuring a National Hockey League franchise, it was learned here to-day.

The Cleveland sextette in the International League and the enthusiasm of local fans who attended games in large numbers, promoted the offer of the financiers, who also are backing a gigantic $5,000,000 lake-front stadium.

SAANICH BUYS IN BOND ISSUE

Lake Road Debentures Second Issue Redeemed This Spring

Saanich municipality yesterday bought in the Lake Road debentures issued in 1916, the necessary $28,959 being taken from accumulated sinking funds. This retirement financing was the second to be accomplished this year, $25,000 of debentures issued in 1920, to pay for the Saanich War Memorial Health Centre, having been paid off on March 1.

Funds are in the treasury for the redemption of the Shelbourne Street debentures, which mature on May 31 next, and the payment of the $28,574 will render Saanich free of all debt other than self-sustaining waterworks issues.

The municipal credit is pledged to the extent of $690,400 for waterworks purposes, but of this amount $219,482 had been accumulated in the treasury line December by way of sinking funds, this being $10,731 above the requirements of the various issues.

GOLDSTREAM HOTEL WILL BE REBUILT

Excavation Work For New Building Is Now Proceeding on the Original Site

Excavations have been commenced for the new Goldstream Hotel on the original site, which, in pre-war days, was an attractive location for picnic parties, the ample grounds there providing space for sports of every description.

The former hotel was destroyed by fire about ten years ago. The owner of the property, Mrs. M. Greening Miller-Smith, is now rebuilding the structure.

LOGGING ACTIVE
The Fairservice and Gierin Company is engaged in cutting logs from its large stand of timber on the Goldstream watershed, purchased from the city of Victoria.

The logs are being shipped over a newly-constructed logging railway, seven miles in length, to join the Canadian National line at Luxton.

Ottawa Makes Over Finance Department

Recent Thefts Lead to Creation of New Post and Audit By Independent Firms

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 17.—Ottawa's board of control yesterday evening took drastic steps to eliminate conditions in the city hall revealed recently when two city employees were found guilty of embezzlement. W. A. Tolley, city auditor, who has been under suspension since early in March, when Bradford Broad, a cashier in the treasurer's department, admitted thefts, was discharged and the resignation of H. L. Corbett, city treasurer, who had been employed by the corporation for thirty-one years, was accepted. The board recommended the city auditor's department be abolished and an audit by outside firms be instituted.

NEW POST
In charge of the treasurer's department it is proposed to create the combined position of commissioner of finance and city treasurer, the incumbent to receive a minimum salary of $5,000, with annual increases of $500 to a maximum of $10,000. Various recommendations in regard to the internal working of the treasurer's and other departments as made in the outside auditor's report, will be submitted to city council for adoption.

U.S. Farmers Urged To Grow Less Wheat

Chairman of Farm Board Tells Growers That Is Only Way to Put Industry on Profitable Basis

By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 17.—The United States Farm Board is asking farmers to reduce their production of wheat because "it does not believe they can put their industry on a profitable basis in any other way." Chairman Alexander Legge of the Farm Board declared in a radio address yesterday.

Reports from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana indicated the farmers there were responding favorably to the request they plant less wheat and the board was getting encouragement from the Pacific Northwest and from the winter wheat belt in its campaign for a reduction of ten per cent in planting, Legge said.

WOULD TAKE MEASURES

"All the consuming countries in the world are watching us closely," he said. "I am satisfied they would take prompt measures to retaliate in the event exporting was done on a basis which they believe unfair to their own growers."

In asking the wheat farmer to reduce his acreage the board is not asking him to reduce his income. Instead the board confidently believes his income will be improved. If he could get more money for four bushels of wheat than he now gets for five, where is the incentive for raising the extra bushel?

WITH LOANED MONEY

Legge turned upon critics of the central marketing associations who cried "Socialism" as they saw the National Grain Corporation and similar organizations buying with money loaned by the government. "These central marketing associations," he said, "are owned and controlled by the co-operatives that set them up. The government's part is to assist farmers in the building up of these co-operatives, making sure they are constructed on a sound economic basis and to give guidance and financial aid temporarily until they become strong enough to go it alone."

HEARING OF ESTATE ACTION LASTS MONTH

Canadian Industrial Alcohol Ltd. Subject of Much Evidence in Montreal

Montreal, April 17.—Observations on the management of Canadian Industrial Alcohol Limited and suggestions as to how the company's standing could be improved, were heard at yesterday's sessions of the trial of the action brought by Lady Davis and her stepson against Lord Shaughnessy and Alexander M. Reaser, in an effort to have the two removed as trustees of the estate of the late Sir Mortimer Davis. It was the twenty-sixth day of the hearing.

George Macdonald, a chartered accountant, who has been called into consultation by Lady Davis prior to the action, was the one witness yesterday.

The history of the Alcohol Company illustrates the development of a prosperous enterprise over a period of years, the witness said. "It was well established in 1928, and up to that time Sir Mortimer Davis had made about $12,800,000 out of it. It continued to prosper beyond that time and I do not see why the value of the shares of its stock can not be made considerably higher than the present market price."

NEW POLICY

"What is the possibility of marketing the stock?"
"The only possibility I can see is an aggressive policy of management under a man who knows the business. For ten years the company marketed its product well and for the last few years the effect of increased competition has been shown, but the company is in a strong position with respect to the reputation of its product and its good will."

Mr. Macdonald filed statements showing the value of the investments of the incorporated company as at March 31, 1928, as at September 30, 1929, and as at February 28, 1930. These showed an apparent depreciation of about $10,000,000 in the assets. The witness explained that the liquidation of the estate and the incorporation of the company to be $8,789,529.00, while the readily marketable assets amounted to only $8,202,000, an excess of liabilities over assets of some $587,529.00.

CANADIAN INVESTMENTS IN OTHER COUNTRIES NOW MORE THAN $1,745,000,000

This Country Controls Over Fifty-five Per Cent of Securities of Its Own Enterprises and Is Rapidly Buying Back Bonds Held in Britain; Foreign Investments Here Show Big Gain.

Ottawa, April 17 (By The Canadian Press)—The total British and Foreign capital invested in Canada on January 1, 1929, was $5,904,169,000, according to an estimate made public today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Canadians had invested abroad $1,745,815,977 on that date.

The report states: "Any estimate of this character is liable to a margin of error. But the utmost care has been taken in the present computation, and it is believed that the figures approximate fairly to actual conditions."
"It is estimated that the total British and foreign investment of capital in Canada on January 1, 1929, was $5,904,169,000. Of this sum $2,197,682,000 was British, $3,476,087,000 was from the United States and $236,400,000 was from other countries.

"Since our national wealth can be estimated for the same date as between $23,000,000,000 and $30,000,000,000, it will be seen that outside capital comprises about one-fifth of this total."
"Moreover, it is estimated that Canadians own from sixty-five per cent of the securities of its own enterprises located on Canadian soil, and in addition have invested abroad the sum of $1,745,815,977, which is nearly thirty per cent of the outside investment in Canada. Of these Canadian investments—abroad, $95,916,848 is estimated to be in Britain.

A leading physician of Vancouver has kindly given us a brief explanation of the recently investigated causes that make evaporated milk more digestible and therefore of more value as a food for babies. He says in part:

"It is pretty well agreed, as evaporated milk is sterilized and homogenized, the casein never forms tough, solid curd lumps in the stomach like ordinary milk. Homogenization is rather important. It does away with the coarse, fat globules of untreated milk and, therefore, makes the essential bacteria much easier to assimilate."

There were difficulties in the way,

however, he pointed out. Chiefly on account of the fact that work on the harbor could only be carried on five months in the year.

The Minister announced the contract for a 2,500,000-bushel grain elevator would be let about the middle of next month, and that the construction of a water service for the town had been undertaken by the Department of Railways and Canals.

In the latter connection, Mr. Crerar took occasion to warn people in Manitoba and Saskatchewan who were taking a lively interest in the port, that various weighty circumstances would make it impossible to open Churchill this year for general settlement.

Speaking enthusiastically of the possibilities of the railway and port, the Minister made the interesting announcement that inquiries had been received from various industrial concerns and it was quite possible that in the next few months there would be a statement to the effect that a certain big concern was going to use Churchill as a base for the distribution of its products on the prairies.

Mr. Crerar said there had been a great change in sentiment in the east so far as the Hudson Bay Railway was concerned. When he was in parliament twenty years ago, there was very few members who had any faith whatever in the road. Now many people were convinced of the practicability of the road not only for export purposes, but because of the mining development that had taken place in the northern country.

Mr. Crerar emphasized the possibilities of the route because of its shorter distance to Liverpool, and stated that in order that high insurance rates would not handicap development of the route, everything was being done by the government in efforts to remove misconceptions regarding the dangers of navigating the strait, to demonstrate how long each year the strait would be navigable, and to make it clear that the route, with modern aids to navigation, would be as safe as any commercial route for at least four and probably five months of the year.

TO THE ORIENT

In speaking of the advantages of the Hudson Bay route in connection with trade with the Orient, Mr. Crerar predicted that some day there would be a line west from Churchill, through the Rocky Mountains to the head of the Fortified Canal, which would give a direct route from Liverpool to the Far East.

Not in This Case

The enthusiastic young man entered the offices of the first big firm he found.

"What sort of a chance is there for a young fellow beginning at the bottom, to work his way up?" he inquired.

"Not much chance," said the manager. "We're contractors for digging wells."

ONTARIO COURT
ORDERS K.K.K.
MAN TO JAILThree-month Sentence Is Outcome of Oakville Incident

Toronto, April 17.—The appeal of H. A. Phillips of Hamilton, Ont., against the fine of $50 and costs, imposed on him by Magistrate McIlveen at Oakville on a charge of being masked in public, was dismissed yesterday by the Ontario First Divisional Court here.

The counter-appeal of the crown maintaining the sentence was too lenient was upheld and a sentence of three months in jail, without the option of a fine, was imposed by the court.

On February 28 last a party of Ku Klux Klansmen raided the home of R. A. Johnson at Oakville and removed from the dwelling Isobel Jones, who was alleged to have been with Johnson against the wishes of her mother. Subsequently the couple were married.

Phillips, one of the party of from fifty to seventy-five Klansmen involved in the raid, was convicted and fined. Yesterday's appeal and counter-appeal were the sequel and created wide interest, being the first case of its kind in Canada.

Chief Justice Muick, in delivering the sentence, declared:

"The motive of the accused and his companions is immaterial. Their action was unlawful and it is the duty of this court to pronounce the appropriate punishment."

The attack of the accused and his companions on the rights of this girl was an attempt to overthrow the law of the land and in its place set up mob law. It is the duty of the court to protect the authority of the law and regarding, as we do, the offence in question as a grave one, we are of the opinion the monetary fine imposed by the magistrate was a wholly inadequate punishment, a travesty of justice, and we substitute therefor imprisonment for the term of three months."

Edwards, Baly, K.C., representing the crown, in his argument pointed out that participants could not be taking part in this action were liable to a term of twenty-five years' imprisonment.

SAY APPEAL PLANNED

Hamilton, Ont., April 17.—The Oakville incident of the Ku Klux Klansmen is an issue which may be carried to the highest court in the land.

Members of the "invisible empire" here met last night and determined upon action, it is stated, as the result yesterday of the action of the appellate court at Oakville, Ontario, in not only supporting the fine of $50 imposed by an Oakville magistrate upon W. A. Phillips, local citizen, but increasing the penalty to three months in jail.

It was openly declared the appeal would be carried to the highest court in the land. By that, it was explained, was meant the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Port Alberni

Port Alberni, April 16.—Miss Helen Doble, Dr. A. R. Wilson and Elmer Glasiepe were included among the Port Alberni guests who motored to Great Central at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young Robson, who were dinner and bridge hosts at their residence at Great Central on Saturday evening, when they entertained in honor of Miss Margaret Wrotonowski, who is leaving this month for a six months' visit at Holland. Additional guests were Miss Louise Laidlaw and Miss Kay Allen of Vancouver, Misses Georgie McGonigal, Gertrude Ponsford, Enn Wirtanen, Mary Wirtanen, Edward Benson, Alfred Kennedy, C. Galifford, Ralph Minnogan and Cecil Raikes.

Jack Harris is leaving today for Nanaimo, where he will spend a few days.

L. A. Wrotonowski of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, Vancouver, is expected in the city to spend the Easter holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wrotonowski, Victoria Quay.

Miss Margaret Hilton, who is a student at Queen Margaret's School, Duncan, and her brother Dick, who is studying at Ganges Preparatory School, Salt Spring Island, have arrived home to spend the Easter vacation with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Hilton.

The regular meeting of the Girl Guides' Association was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dave Perrier, Latham Road, with the president, Mrs. George Robinson, in the chair. Routine business was disposed of and discussion centred on the forthcoming Easter tea to be held by the Girl Guides, under the supervision of Capt. Mrs. G. S. Cozens. Following the business session tea was served by the hostesses.

Tommy McNiff, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McNiff, Johnston Street, is expected home today from Vancouver College, to spend the Easter vacation here. His sister Margaret, who is a student at the Sacred Heart Convent, Point Grey, Vancouver, is expected home on Saturday.

Mrs. R. J. Burde and her daughter Margaret were in the city for a few days visiting Major R. J. Burde.

Miss Madeline Woodford has returned to her home here, after spending the last two weeks at Nanaimo, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dick.

After spending the last three weeks at Victoria, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Redding, Lee Avenue, Mrs. Harold E. Murray has returned to the city.

Duncan, April 16.—Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Robinson, Cowichan Lake Road, are spending a week at Qualicum Beach.

Mrs. Mann and Miss Joan Mann of Qualicum were visitors in Duncan on Tuesday.

Miss Dorothy Price has returned home to Duncan, after spending the past eight months in Vernon.

FARMER FINDS
LOST IN BLIZZARD

Birtle, Man., April 17.—Victim of a blizzard, the body of a fifteen-year-old Indian girl, Agnes Ben, pupil at the Birtle Indian School, was found on the prairie near here late yesterday. The girl disappeared while on her way home from school on March 11. Lost on the prairie during a storm, she is believed to have perished of exhaustion and exposure.

The body was found by a farmer who was hunting stray horses.

At the time of her disappearance, an intensive search was made by residents of the community, Indians of the Birtle Reserve, near here, Boy Scouts and Provincial Police.

British Commons Rejects Views Of Lords on Bill

London, April 17.—The House of Commons yesterday voted 194 to 50 to reinstate in the Army Estimates Bill the clause abolishing the death penalty for cowardice and desertion. This was the answer of the Commons to the action of the House of Lords in deleting from the bill the clause doing away with the penalty.

Now that the Commons has reiterated its stand, the sequel is manifestly a matter for the government to decide. Following a budget which the Conservatives term socialistic, there is some nervousness over the Lords and Commons issue as it is felt that may bring to a crisis the whole series of differences between the two vastly separated schools of political thought.

PROF. EINSTEIN EXPLAINS HIS

SPECTATORS IN COURT ARE TOLD TO KEEP QUIET

Berlin, April 17.—At a meeting of the Prussian Academy of Sciences yesterday evening, Dr. Albert Einstein elucidated his latest work in the uniform field theory, aiming at establishing uniformity in the fields of electricity and gravity, that is to say, in the surroundings of electrically charged bodies in which effects of these bodies become noticeable.

To make it possible to embrace these phenomena in the same viewpoint, besides the assumption of mathematical equations, is the object of Prof. Einstein's uniform field theory. This aims at nothing less than a sweeping simplification of methods for calculating the physical cosmos.

Dr. Einstein described the points of view he had started from in order to arrive at his field equations. In these, besides the assumption of coherent variability laid down in his relativity theory, his assumption of the compatibility of the equations plays a most important role, since more equations exist than are required for determining size and functions of bodies.

NEW DEPUTY MINISTER

Toronto, April 17.—James S. Fairbairn, fruit grower of Beamsville, has been appointed Deputy Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario government.

Mr. Fairbairn succeeds W. Bert Roadhouse, who has been Deputy Minister for a number of years. Mr. Roadhouse will assume chairmanship of the agriculture development board, of which he has been acting chairman for some time. The change takes effect immediately.

New Oil Goes
200 Miles FartherAND THRU 6 SPECIFIC ADVANTAGES BRINGS BETTER
LUBRICATION TO YOUR HIGH COMPRESSION CAR

MOTORITE is the new oil that meets all six lubrication requirements of your new high compression car.

1. It has the ability to cling extra tightly to metal. Thus it forms a perfect seal between piston and cylinder wall to resist the intense pressure developed by gas explosions above. This enables you to obtain the full power from your high compression motor that the designer intended.
2. It is super oily or slippery, so keeps friction at a minimum. This means smoother operation.
3. It also has a great capacity for carrying away and giving up heat. When traveling long distances at sustained high speeds it keeps your motor cool.
4. MOTORITE definitely resists dilution by "giving up" stray gasoline in the form of vapor without harming the lubricating efficiency or life of the oil.
5. This new oil deposits less carbon and only the soft, fluffy kind that blows out thru the exhaust. There's less wear on rings and cylinder walls when you lubricate with MOTORITE—less need for engine repairs.
6. And MOTORITE, through special purification processes, is completely freed from acid-forming tendencies. It cannot corrode your motor.

These advantages mean more efficient lubrication for your high compression car—yet longer oil life. Now, with MOTORITE, you can drain at 200 miles farther than you have been in the habit of doing.

40¢ a QUART

MOTORITE is sold at all Union Oil Company service stations and wherever you see the MOTORITE sign. Quantity production and quantity sales bring its cost to only 40¢ a quart.

Specify it by name—MOTORITE.

Use it with UNION ETHYL for best results in high compression motoring.

BORDEN FOR GOVERNOR-GENERAL?

FROM THE EAST COMES THE MENTION of Sir Robert Borden as a possible successor to Lord Willingdon as Governor-General of Canada.

Up to this time the chief objection urged against the appointment of a Canadian to Rideau Hall was the difficulty of finding somebody who would be satisfactory to all Canadian political parties, who could be depended upon to be thoroughly impartial in all matters.

Although in the hey-day of his political career Sir Robert Borden took his party politics seriously and vigorously, he has long been remote from the influences of active political partisanship as the poles apart. He is a man of broad vision and exceptional intellectual attainments. He is a staunch Canadian in all that the term implies. He thoroughly understands the responsibilities as well as the limitations of the high office to which it is suggested he should be appointed. No one is more familiar with the structure of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and the growth of the Dominions to equality with one another, while his contacts with the statesmen of many nations during the war made him an international figure. He would make an admirable Governor-General.

CLEANING UP THE MOVIES

MR. WILL HAYS, CALLED THE MOVIE "Czar" of the United States, has issued a new moral code to which "talkies" in the future will be expected to conform. As was to be supposed, he has provoked a controversy; by some his edict is described as "welcome," and "a needed protection," while others assail it as "flapdoodle" and the death knell of the motion-picture art.

To those who have manifested their hostility Mr. Hays has replied that the new code "marks the greatest step taken by the motion-picture industry in the direction of self-government, to the end that the entertainment, educational, and informative values of the theatrical screen shall conform not only to the best standards of this art, but to the wholesome instincts of life."

Here is the code which, incidentally, it is said every motion-picture producer has promised to observe:

That the use of liquor in American life shall be restricted to the actual requirements of characterization or plot.

Pointed profanity is forbidden.

Obscenity in word, gesture, reference, song, joke, or by suggestion is forbidden.

Indecent or undue exposure is forbidden.

That scenes of passion shall not be introduced when not essential to the plot; sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden on the screen.

That the sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld; that adultery shall not be explicitly treated or justified.

That crimes against law shall never be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law or justice.

That acts of murder or brutality shall be presented only in such a way as will not inspire imitation; that methods of crime shall not be presented in explicit detail on the screen; that revenge in modern times shall not be justified as a motive.

Dances which emphasize indecent movements are to be regarded as obscene; the subject of white slavery shall not be treated on the screen.

No film episode may throw ridicule on any religious faith; ministers of religion in their character as ministers of religion should not be used as comic characters or as villains.

The use of the flag shall be consistently respectful; the history, institutions, prominent people, and citizenry of other nations shall be represented fairly.

One of the first attacks upon these tenets was accompanied by the charge that Mr. Hays had acted as the result of pressure brought to bear upon him by reform organizations. This he denied, but explained that "in the completion of this task the industry owes much to studies made by leading dramatists, educators, and psychologists, and to the co-operation received from church leaders, from leaders in the field of child education, from representatives of many women's organizations, and from other students of our moral, social, and family problems."

Cheers and jeers have been heard from many prominent men in the republic. Mr. Edison has congratulated Mr. Hays upon the new code. Mr. George M. Cohan, an actor of international repute, says he believes "that business self-government along with clean, decent pictures will mean the life of the industry." The governor of Arkansas believes "it will insure much benefit to society." On the other hand, the national director of the Civil Liberties Union of New York, describes the code as "an absurd effort to set up artificial and extraneous standards in the field of an art which is just beginning to find itself."

Patrons of the movies everywhere are demanding quality and detail in production which will entertain and instruct but not offend; they want wholesome subjects wholesomely treated. In sum, the law-abiding, clean-minded citizen will applaud the new Hays code. It could be adopted with profit by moving-picture producers in other countries.

BEAVERBROOK TO BALDWIN

"THIS IS BALDWIN'S PLEDGE TO YOU" is the title of a leaflet recently issued from Conservative headquarters in Great Britain. The subject discussed is Empire free trade as accepted by Mr. Baldwin in conjunction with his proposal to submit the question of food taxes in a referendum to the people. But it has aroused Lord Beaverbrook to action. He interprets the document as asking power to go into conference with the Dominions "in order to make a bargain which will enable us to sell more manufactured goods to them, and if the Dominions then ask us to help them by putting taxes on foreign foodstuffs, and allowing them to enter free, the question will be put to the country by means of a referendum."

Lord Beaverbrook is in harmony with Dominion sentiment when he suggests that it would be the wrong policy to put the onus of asking for duties on foreign food on the Dominions, "instead of making these duties the extent of a constructive policy which Great Britain ought to put forward." As far as Canada is concerned, he has asked Great Britain for nothing in connection with this or any other tariff proposal. There are many people in this country who consider that even if Lord Beaverbrook's proposal in its original form may not be practical, its author's sincerity in the matter is beyond question, and that there is no justification whatever for the nasty names which not a few public men and some newspapers have called it ever since the first manifesto was made public.

This newspaper for many years has advocated the reduction of duties on goods we import from Great Britain. The present government at Ottawa is pledged to an increase in the British Preference—which means lowering these duties—and we think this policy is in the best interests of the people of Canada. But the consumers of this country will not ask the government to try to make any bargain with Great Britain on it. What Britain does in this regard, as Lord Beaverbrook contends, she must do on her own initiative.

FOR MR. BENNETT'S INFORMATION

"There are many who regret, for the sake of Canada, that Mr. Meighen is not still in politics. He was a leader without fear and one at whom the finger of reproach could never be pointed."—The Colonist commenting on the visit of the former Prime Minister of Canada to Victoria.

IT HAS BEEN OBVIOUS FOR SOME time, of course, that a number of opposition newspapers in various parts of the country are considerably worried about Mr. Bennett. They are trying to be loyal to him, hoping against hope that he will give some hint of his capacity for leadership, but they seem destined to be disappointed. The opposition leader's two speaking tours of the west last year were notorious fizzes. He had no policy to propose, nothing constructive to offer, and he blew hot and cold upon the general principles which his party is supposed to support, according to the part of the country in which he happened to be.

There is no question, as the morning paper so pointedly observes, that many Conservatives in Canada wish that Mr. Meighen were still in politics. Although he was not able to lead his party to victory during the five years he presided over its destinies, he had the courage of his convictions and stuck to them. Mr. Bennett, on the other hand, seems to want to run with the fox and hunt with the hounds. He is trying to face both ways. Beyond doubt, the morning paper's comment will be noted by Mr. Bennett with mixed feelings.

MR. FORD AS A DIETITIAN

HENRY FORD IS A GREAT MAN; BUT we cannot, hard as we try, see eye to eye with him on this business of diet.

Ford wants simple meals—fruit for breakfast, proteins for lunch and starch for dinner. He seems to come close to the position of those scientists who urge beings to live solely on concentrated food pellets.

Maybe, as he says, this would bring longer life. But what of that? Why seek to live to be ninety if you can never sit down to a breakfast of hot muffins, marmalade, griddle cakes, maple syrup and coffee? What price longevity if things like chicken à la Maryland, hot biscuits, baked Virginia ham, New England clam chowder and hot mince pie must be left out?

Forget it, Mr. Ford! Stick to your flippers and leave our diet alone.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

HORSE SENSE

The Louisville Times

The true value of horse sense is clearly shown by the fact that the horse was slaying at the automobile during the period in which the pedestrian laughed at it.

A DOUBTFUL PANACEA

The Philadelphia Leader

With passage virtually assured for Canada's measure forbidding clearance of liquor shipments to the United States, Treasury officials in Washington see in it a solution for the rum-running problem along the northern border. Enforcement officers there, they say, can then be shifted to New York, Chicago and other big cities. Seagoing Coast Guard craft can then be moved to the North Atlantic to re-enforce the rum blockade on the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon. The liquor flood, they believe, will soon be reduced to a few persistent trickles. That is a question. Agents for American liquor syndicates are now defying the United States law. Will they hold Canadian law more sacred?

BLAMING THE REPORTER

The Toronto Telegram

It has become a habit with public men when they get in a hole to try to wiggle out by blaming it on the reporter. And the latter is usually compelled to suffer in silence.

The result is that among certain people there is a tendency to regard reporters as a class who never tell the truth and who are prepared to set even the law at defiance provided they can get a story.

The exact opposite is the case. While all newspapers encourage enterprise on the part of their reporters no reputable newspaper will countenance dishonest or untruthful methods in the carrying out of their work.

Newspapers want facts but they require them to be honestly come by and the reporter who deviates from the straight and narrow path will suddenly drift into some other occupation.

This means that reporters must of necessity be actuated by a code of ethics that is at least as strict as those that apply to any other profession or occupation. It also means that when public men "blame it on the reporter" they are in fact placing the onus of their own misdeeds on the reporter.

Loose Ends

Mr. Gandhi makes war on the Machine, which is a steerable job. An American saga comes to a pitiable end at Northampton, Mass. And our beauty contests prove certain facts.

By H. B. W.

TO THE student of history some time hence the present activities of Mr. Gandhi will be tremendously interesting. Perhaps most interesting of all will be one of the more obscure features of this remarkable man's programme. Mr. Gandhi and his followers are not only attempting to destroy British rule in India but our whole form of civilization as well. They are trying to smash the Machine which makes our civilization go. Every day Mr. Gandhi and his followers spin a fixed amount of cotton on primitive spinning wheels, in the belief that if every man would do the same the necessity for modern spinning machinery would cease. In the same way, they hold, the need of all machinery can be ended and the Machine Age brought to a peaceful, unregretted close. A revolution infinitely bigger even than the future of India.

MANY OF us in this western, machine-ridden world will watch Mr. Gandhi's experiments with spinning-wheels a little wistfully. All the times are apt to consider the Machine as our former slave which now has become our ruthless master. But to think that we can abandon it peacefully, of our own free will, is to disregard all the lessons of history. Never in the world has it been recorded that any civilization which had pressed forward in a fixed direction, as we have done in the development of the Machine, has suddenly decided to turn around and go backwards. Many a civilization has gone on until it smashed itself. None has ever retraced its steps.

THE MACHINE with us is an inevitable, irrefragable thing, as certain to grow and develop as a plant. When the first savage used a pole to dislodge a rock, and discovered the law of the lever, there has been no escaping the development of this idea. Our machines are merely an elaboration of this simple device, no different in principle. Our printing press is only an improvement on messages written by hand on papyrus, our radio only a development of beacon fires and African drums our great textile machines merely the offspring of Gandhi's little spinning wheel. Scrap them all tomorrow and the human animal would instantly start to create them all over again, for such is his nature. There is no escape except for a few unusual, saintly people like Mr. Gandhi. We must go on and on with our Machine to the end. It is with us and will remain with us, growing more powerful every day. We cannot smash it, but we may end by discarding it, but to learn to control it.

THE GREAT legend of modern America has been shattered. A tale of prayer and struggle which was expected to inspire the young men of America generations hence has ended in a crushing anti-climax of disillusionment. A national monument has collapsed. An idol has been discovered with feet of clay. Mr. Calvin Coolidge has fought a house.

ORDINARILY THERE would be no particular importance in an ex-President of the United States buying a house. Many have done so before this and many will do it again, no doubt. But when Mr. Coolidge buys a house, then, indeed, it is news, and it is terrible. Since 1903, you see, Mr. Coolidge, when not in the Boston State House or the Washington White House, has lived in half a little rented wooden house in Northampton, Mass. There it has been the custom of photographers and scribes to repair at frequent intervals to take pictures and write stirring articles about Mr. Coolidge's humble way of life. A whole generation of American children has been educated to believe that the simple, unassuming spirit of America dwelt within that half of the Northampton House wherein Mr. Coolidge resided. It was the nearest approach to Abraham Lincoln's log cabin that modern times could supply, and it was exploited to the limit. The nation came to feel in time that everything was at right, that its own heart was sound, that the spirit of its pioneer ancestors still lived, so long as Mr. Coolidge, the ex-president, was content with half a little house in Northampton, Mass.

AND NOW Mr. Coolidge spots it all by purchasing a great many other houses where he will dwell like other ordinary men of means. He says it will offer better accommodation for his friends and more room for his dogs. This is true, and no one grudges a little comfort to a man who has served his country well in many capacities. For an ordinary man this would be quite all right, but Mr. Coolidge is no ordinary man. For twenty-five years he has been building up a tradition, the stern and splendid tradition of the duplex house in Northampton, Mass., and such a tradition carries with it an awful responsibility. To smash the tradition, to end the legend, to upset the monument, is a shocking thing indeed.

GREAT PLACES carry with them great sacrifices, and one feels, somehow, in the interest of American civilization and American character, that Mr. Coolidge should have lived out the legend and maintained the tradition doggedly to the end in the little duplex house in Northampton, Mass. Instead, for a time home, a little comfort, and more space for his dogs, he surrendered a unique place in the nation's history which none of his contemporaries could hope to equal. And the disillusioned heart of America must be sore.

OF ALL the manifestations of our peculiar civilization, none I think is quite so distressing as the modern beauty contest. Everywhere nowadays beauty contests are being held, whether there is any beauty available or not, and everywhere you see the winners of these competitions pictured in the newspapers, the magazines and on the screen. To anyone of thoughtful mind they offer food for deep contemplation and some alarm. You will find in the first place that our standard of beauty is strangely distorted; not that I am seeking to defend the elephantine, overfed specifications of the Victorian era, but when a lady is chosen as the most beautiful in the universe (one of the lesser titles usually awarded) you expect more than the snub nose and the mouth of a tooth paste advertisement which you usually get.

APPARENTLY, HOWEVER, from the photographs of the highest prize winners, this age does not want character in its beauties. It wants them all to be cast in precisely the same mould with the noxious flapper air and the inevitable baby face. Intelligence, of course, is absolutely barred (though this seems an unnecessary precaution) and as far as I have ever seen, no lady who has won a beauty contest in the last decade seemed to be capable of any mental process. They managed to conceal it somewhat when they could appear on the screen and remain beautiful but dumb. In the talkies they have to speak and your worst fears are immediately confirmed. Despite their articulation, they appear more dumb and less beautiful than ever.

TO A shallow thinker these things may seem to prove that our women have suffered a simultaneous physical and mental decline. The contrary is the truth. As they have become more beautiful they have become too wise to exploit their beauty. Only the dumber, less beautiful ones ever enter the beauty contests. But the mental and physical state of the public has declined so much that it hasn't found these things out yet.

Don't let the priceless years slip by

BECAUSE Forhan's is so frequently recommended by dentists, many people wrongly conclude that this dentifrice should be used only where some trouble exists.

It is far better to prevent trouble than to treat it—the mouth of youth needs the double benefits of Forhan's. When used with massage at the time of brushing, it not only cleans the teeth, but firms up the gums as well, and helps to keep them in sound, good health.

Don't wait for middle age. Adopt Forhan's now as your dentifrice—35¢ and 60¢—a few cents a tube more than the ordinary toothpaste and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Limited, Montreal.

Any mouth may have pyorrhea and at forty the odds are 4 out of 5

LEGION BOOK IS SPONSORED BY PRINCE OF WALES

Volumes to Be Sent Subscribers Direct From St. James's Palace

London, April 17.—One of the first matters to claim the interest of the Prince of Wales when he returns from his visit to Africa will undoubtedly be the progress of his book published in Canada under the title "Legion." This unique book, written and illustrated, at the Prince's personal invitation, by no fewer than fifty of the most famous novelists, poets and artists in this country, was published in aid of the British Legion, and the King expressly desired that the money resulting from its sale should be regarded as a thankoffering for his recovery.

It is not generally known, however, that there is an edition de luxe of the book of which only 500 copies are for sale. This rare edition price, five guineas, postage two shillings, printed at the Curwen Press, who have a well deserved reputation among all bibliophiles in the English-speaking world, is a finely printed book in the fullest sense.

LETTER FROM PRINCE'S COMPTROLLER
The paper is specially pleasing and the type used is presented to the reading public for the first time. The title page is adorned with a copper engraving designed and engraved by Clifford Webb. Furthermore, this edition de luxe contains initial letters in red, newly designed, and the binding is handsome and durable, full buckram boards, boxed.
The illustrations, produced by the superb colotype process, include the King (in color), the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and a drawing in color by Max Beerbaum.
ATTRACTIVE FOR COLLECTORS
Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, Comptroller and Treasurer to His Royal Highness, has made special arrangements for this limited edition to be obtained direct from St. James's Palace. Everyone who writes to him there will receive, with the copy applied for, his acknowledgment on the Prince's behalf.
This edition is extremely attractive to collectors and most probably its possessors in the years to come will find their possession has increased in value. It comprises some of the finest things ever penned, and especially penned by Rudyard Kipling, John Galsworthy, G. K. Chesterton, Hilaire Belloc, Arnold Bennett, Aldous Huxley, Edgar Wallace, Horace Walpole, Robert Bridges, the poet laureate, and Bliss Carman, whose loss to the world of letters is regretted by all.
Thus this edition of the "Legion" Book is a most covetable treasure, but its worth to the possessor is more than doubled by the added virtue of being a means of helping a splendid cause.

FOR LEGION FUND
That cause is the welfare of the men who fought and faced death, and who, having survived the fight, are now finding it an even greater test of courage to face life; and it is, too, the succoring of the widows and children of those who have died after serving their country.

The proceeds from the sale of the book go to the Prince's personal fund for the British Legion—a fund with the administration of which he is personally associated.
All letters in regard to the edition de luxe of this Legion Book should be addressed to: Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, G.C.M.G., St. James's Palace, S.W. 1, and the envelopes marked "L." Cheques should be made payable to The Legion Book fund.

Happy Valley

W. F. Clark and son, who have recently come from Vancouver, have purchased the Happy Valley Sawmill, and started operations on Monday, April 14.

Bishop Vaughan will preach Easter Sunday at 3 p.m. at Trinity Mission Hall, Happy Valley Road.

Mr. and Mrs. David McCormick, who have been honeymooning on the Mainland for a week, have taken up residence in their new bungalow on Latoria Road.

Mrs. Robert Brown, "Mandaly," has been the guest of Mrs. R. Shank, Victoria.

Alan Browning is staying in Victoria for a few days.

Miss Margaret Dale was a week-end guest of Mrs. David Welch.

SNOWDEN STATES DOLES PREVENTED REVOLT MOVES

London, April 17.—Sir Philip Snowden's profound socialism came to the surface when, replying to criticism in the Commons, yesterday, he professed the conviction that unemployment does not save the country from a revolution. He regretted a capital levy had not been applied then, when the moment was favorable, but he hoped he was now remedying the neglect by taking the fortunes of wartime profiteers through the states duties.

It was arrant nonsense to talk of overthrowing the capitalist, declared the Chancellor of the Exchequer, but he aimed to transform that system by placing under public ownership not only declining concerns but prosperous industries. This pronouncement by Mr. Snowden brought loud labor cheers.

ST. GEORGE BRAVED WRATH OF EMPEROR

Patron Saint of England To Be Honored at Banquet of Royal Society of St. George on April 23.

A great deal of mystery surrounds the person of St. George, the anniversary of whose birth and death will be celebrated on St. George's Day, April 23, in song and speech, at the annual banquet of the Royal Society of St. George.

Every ship in the Navy flies a flag in which is embodied the Cross of St. George, and every ship in commission flies also at its masthead the Flag of St. George.

While there is great mystery about the history of St. George, it is known that he was a military hero, and a military saint. In the Navy in the old days it was the soldiers who fought on the ships, just as they fought on land, and when Richard I took his Crusaders to deliver the holy places from the infidel all the soldiers on his ships were the cross upon their shoulders and upon their breasts. The ships also flew the white flag with the red cross of St. George at their mastheads. In later days, the attitude taken that for the future the leader of a great national expedition should be called an admiral, and not a general, and at the same time it was laid down that every ship in His Majesty's fleet should carry three flags, one of which should be the Flag of St. George, and that same codification of the customary sea laws laid down those grand and memorable words that "it is upon the Navy under the goodness of God that the safety, honor and welfare of this realm do chiefly depend." These three things happened in the same year.

Notwithstanding difficulties with regard to his history as the patron saint of England, St. George is always represented as carrying the standard himself, or as being attended by a standard-bearer. This is because he was the hero of a great and daring action, because the action of that kind has always appealed to the English spirit, right through the Elizabethan era to the days of Nelson, and to the days when the sons of Britain fought on Zeebrugge Quay.

SIX PER CENT AUTO INCREASE

Police Officials Forecast 103,000 Cars in B.C. By End of Year

An increase of six per cent, in the registration of automobiles in British Columbia is reported in figures released by the Provincial Police yesterday. During the first quarter of the year 67,180 motor licenses were issued, compared with 62,882 in the corresponding period last year.

Many automobilists, particularly in the interior, do not secure licenses for their cars until after the first three months of the year and allowing for these and the general increase, officials estimate the year will close with 103,000 cars registered.

New passenger cars registered for the first quarter of this year numbered 2,531, a slight drop from the figure of 2,724 in 1929.

There were 52,075 renewals this year, as against 48,551 in 1929, making a total of 54,606 passenger cars as against 51,275.

NEW COMMERCIAL CARS
New commercial cars this year numbered 480, as against 609 a year ago, and there were 12,094 renewals as against 10,998, making a total of 12,574 commercial cars as against 11,697.

Fifty-six new motorcycles were registered this year as against sixty in 1929, and there were 752 renewals as against 555, the total for this year being 808, as compared with 615 a year ago.

MILD WEATHER AFFECTS COAL

Output of B.C. Mines For March Shows Drop From February Peak

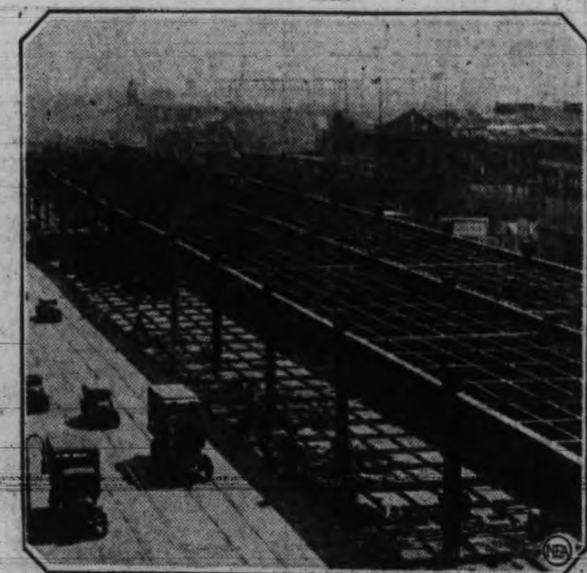

Smaller domestic consumption, owing to the milder weather, has given as the cause of a shrinkage of the coal output in British Columbia for the month of March, compared to the tonnage mined in February. The March output was 147,419 tons, against 166,805 tons in the previous month.

Vancouver Island mines produced 72,942 tons of coal in March, compared with 73,227 tons in February. The Nicola-Princeton district showed a falling off of 2,500 tons, and the Telkwa collieries dropped thirty-one tons in the same period.

The East Kootenay district, embracing the Crow's Nest Pass mines, increased its output for the month, to 57,567 tons, or 2,500 tons above the February figure.

On the Island the Canadian Collieries produced 34,217 tons in March, made up by 22,540 tons mined at Comox, and 11,677 tons at Extension. The Western Fuel Corporation's output was 24,951 tons for March. Other island collieries had an output of 13,744 tons, contributed to by Granby Consolidated, Little Ash, Lantzville, Richardson Mine, Canadian Coal and Iron, Biggs Mine and Piddick Mine.

NEW YORK'S ELEVATED STREET

This is the "street of the future"—and the present. A visionary dream only a few years ago, an automobile express highway is shown here as it nears completion on the west side of crowded Manhattan, along the Hudson River. Over this elevated structure, for a distance of many miles, vehicular traffic may move swiftly without the interruption of cross streets.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.
This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as "sour-belly," frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

SOME FIGHTING DOPE

By JIMMY THOMPSON

In the near future boxing promoter Play Fair Brown of Toronto has promised boxing fans an event that is worth talking about. Brown is certain that towards the end of this month Canadian fans will again see the best flyweight boxer in the world, Corporal Iszy Schwartz.

When the little corporal showed his wares some time ago in this country he proved to be the most popular of foreign boxers that ever stepped over the line. Added to this the wild man, Steve "Stuffy" Rocco, Toronto's flyweight idol, will more than likely be slated against the Gotham boxer. In his last two showings in this country, he whipped "Frenchy" Belanger twice. The second time successfully defending his world's flyweight championship.

Iszy was originally scheduled to meet the winner of the Dane-Rocco imbroglio, but lack of time to get into condition forced him to postpone his 1930 debut.

At yesterday evening's meeting Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, Duncan and Kingston Street were placed in the first division for men, while the same three clubs also entered teams in the second division for both men and women.

Twelve more teams will comprise the third division, and they have been placed in the following sections: Section one, Victoria 1st, Duncan, Armadale and Kingston Street; section two, Victoria 2nd, C.P.R., Hillcrest and J.B. A.A.; section three, Victoria 3rd, St. Paul's, Langford and Knox.

Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, the largest on Vancouver Island, which sponsored the forming of the league, have entered a team in each section of every division.

VICTORIA STRONG
With the first prolonged spell of good weather, players are looking forward to the start of the competitions and are seeking chances to get into shape for the upcoming season. Victoria will have the greatest display of strength with Marsh Gordon, John Edwards, Don Campbell, Eric MacCallum, Noel Radford, Paul and Peter Phillips, A. M. D. Fairbairn, I. M. Isaac, Jerry C. Westwood and W. J. Adams.

Among the younger players include Dudley Wickett, Lionel Huggable, Jimmy Keason and the Burtons, Murphy brothers, Kingston Street, too, have an impressive line-up with Gerald Cunningham, former city champion, Steve Jones, Bob Schwangers, Bert Barnes, Tommy Forbes, Laurie Alexander and Ross Hocking. They are all young players who are anxious to get tournament competition and will endeavor to give the older team in the run. Duncan, the third team in the first division, will have a strong team with Reg and Norman Corfield, Noel Staples, Frank Kingston, Gerald Preston, Eric Loney, Dick Birch and Art Howe.

THE TIP THAT TIM MCGRATH GAVE TO TOM SHARKEY WAS THE SURE-FIRE ARTICLE

WHEN Tom Sharkey and I came to the parting of the ways, he went in the saloon business in New York. I returned to the Coast and opened "The Tip" in San Francisco.

As I still was handling some winners, Tom began writing me to put a bet for him on a big fight. I'd never hear anything from him—until he wanted another tip. And when friends from the east told me Tom begged about what he won on my tips, it sort of got my goat.

I had my chance finally. The morning of the Bob Fitzsimmons-Philadelphia Jack O'Brien fight, Tom wired me as follows:

"Who Will Win Fitzsimmons-O'Brien Fight?—Tom Sharkey."

I had Johnny Bray, one of my bartenders, wire as follows:

"Bet Every Cent You Can Lay Your Hands On. He Can't Lose."

Tom, I've since learned, studied it quite awhile. He took it to two or three friends. Finally, he took it to the telegraph company, complaining that the message was so worded. Finally, in a rage, Tom wired me saying the winner's name was left out and asking me to wire it. I answered:

"He Can't Lose. Bet All the Money You Can Borrow."

SOME TIME later, I saw Sharkey in New York. He wasn't exactly cordial.

"All right, Tom, you don't have to pull that stall on me," I told him. "I didn't tell you who to bet on because I wanted something; I did it just as a friend. I cleaned up ten grand on O'Brien, and hope you did, too. Your's welcome to the tip."

"Tip! I got no tip from you!" roared Tom. "You gave me no name."

"That's all right, Tom," I replied. "You needn't stall me. I wouldn't take your money if you offered it. Don't let the gang get wise to what you're trying to do. I've never asked you to cut me in on money you've won on my tips. Forget it, and we're all square. Come have a drink with your old pal."

Vancouver, April 17.—With nearly ninety entries filed with Secretary A. V. Price yesterday evening, constituting a record, play in the qualifying round of the thirty-second annual B.C. amateur golf championship will start to-morrow morning over the Vancouver Golf and Country Club links at Burquitlam sharp at 8 o'clock. Mr. Price came over from Victoria yesterday and will remain until the final round on Monday, starting at 10 and 2.30 o'clock. K. A. McLennan of the entertaining club will act as official referee.

TWENTY CLUBS HAVE ENTERED TENNIS LEAGUE

Victoria, Kingston Street and Duncan Will Compose First Division

At least twenty teams will perform in the Vancouver Island Tennis League this season, and it is quite possible that another section may yet be formed. Officially, entries closed yesterday evening and the teams were divided into divisions and then again into sections.

At yesterday evening's meeting Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, Duncan and Kingston Street were placed in the first division for men, while the same three clubs also entered teams in the second division for both men and women. Twelve more teams will comprise the third division, and they have been placed in the following sections: Section one, Victoria 1st, Duncan, Armadale and Kingston Street; section two, Victoria 2nd, C.P.R., Hillcrest and J.B. A.A.; section three, Victoria 3rd, St. Paul's, Langford and Knox.

Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, the largest on Vancouver Island, which sponsored the forming of the league, have entered a team in each section of every division.

VICTORIA STRONG
With the first prolonged spell of good weather, players are looking forward to the start of the competitions and are seeking chances to get into shape for the upcoming season. Victoria will have the greatest display of strength with Marsh Gordon, John Edwards, Don Campbell, Eric MacCallum, Noel Radford, Paul and Peter Phillips, A. M. D. Fairbairn, I. M. Isaac, Jerry C. Westwood and W. J. Adams.

Among the younger players include Dudley Wickett, Lionel Huggable, Jimmy Keason and the Burtons, Murphy brothers, Kingston Street, too, have an impressive line-up with Gerald Cunningham, former city champion, Steve Jones, Bob Schwangers, Bert Barnes, Tommy Forbes, Laurie Alexander and Ross Hocking. They are all young players who are anxious to get tournament competition and will endeavor to give the older team in the run. Duncan, the third team in the first division, will have a strong team with Reg and Norman Corfield, Noel Staples, Frank Kingston, Gerald Preston, Eric Loney, Dick Birch and Art Howe.

THE TIP THAT TIM MCGRATH GAVE TO TOM SHARKEY WAS THE SURE-FIRE ARTICLE

WHEN Tom Sharkey and I came to the parting of the ways, he went in the saloon business in New York. I returned to the Coast and opened "The Tip" in San Francisco.

As I still was handling some winners, Tom began writing me to put a bet for him on a big fight. I'd never hear anything from him—until he wanted another tip. And when friends from the east told me Tom begged about what he won on my tips, it sort of got my goat.

I had my chance finally. The morning of the Bob Fitzsimmons-Philadelphia Jack O'Brien fight, Tom wired me as follows:

"Who Will Win Fitzsimmons-O'Brien Fight?—Tom Sharkey."

I had Johnny Bray, one of my bartenders, wire as follows:

"Bet Every Cent You Can Lay Your Hands On. He Can't Lose."

Tom, I've since learned, studied it quite awhile. He took it to two or three friends. Finally, he took it to the telegraph company, complaining that the message was so worded. Finally, in a rage, Tom wired me saying the winner's name was left out and asking me to wire it. I answered:

"He Can't Lose. Bet All the Money You Can Borrow."

SOME TIME later, I saw Sharkey in New York. He wasn't exactly cordial.

"All right, Tom, you don't have to pull that stall on me," I told him. "I didn't tell you who to bet on because I wanted something; I did it just as a friend. I cleaned up ten grand on O'Brien, and hope you did, too. Your's welcome to the tip."

"Tip! I got no tip from you!" roared Tom. "You gave me no name."

"That's all right, Tom," I replied. "You needn't stall me. I wouldn't take your money if you offered it. Don't let the gang get wise to what you're trying to do. I've never asked you to cut me in on money you've won on my tips. Forget it, and we're all square. Come have a drink with your old pal."

Bill Tilden Wins Exhibition Match From Pro Champ

Beaulieu, France, April 17.—Bill Tilden, U.S. amateur tennis champion, defeated Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, world's professional titleholder, in an impromptu match yesterday, 6-4, 6-4.

Kozeluh was at a disadvantage, due to the fact that he had not expected to play. The swarthy little Czech appeared at the Grand as a spectator, but pulled off his coat and jumped on to the court when the match was proposed during an intermission.

In the interesting contest that ensued, Tilden appeared to be at his best and Kozeluh was forced to an extra set. However, in this third match with Lottan, former amateur champion of Nice, finally winning, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Yesterday Evening Show Successful Season

V. L. Denton Named President of Victoria Union; Phil
Willis Returned

What was considered by members of the executive the best rugby season in ten years was brought to a close yesterday evening by the annual meeting of the Victoria Union. Reports from the secretary, Phil Willis, showed the year was an outstanding success as far as matches were concerned. He noted that Victoria returned to McKechnie Cup play after a long lay-off and placed exceptionally well in the series.

Expressions of appreciation were made for the untiring work of the secretary, Phil Willis, energetic coach and secretary, was returned to his office with congratulations on his fine work during last season.

Arthur Morton, a follower of the game for many years, was named vice-president. Fraser Lister was appointed chairman of the Intermediate League, while Captain Dexter was placed at the head of the junior division.

EMPRESS OF CANADA HERE ORIENT-BOUND

C.P.R. Flagship Taking Fair Passenger List to Honolulu and Far East To-day

Capt. A. J. Hailey Is in Command Replacing Capt. Samuel Robinson

The first white Empress on the summer schedule arrived in port this afternoon on her way from Vancouver to Honolulu and the Orient. The Empress of Canada, which sailed from Vancouver at 11 o'clock this morning, was expected to berth alongside the Rithet piers shortly after 4 o'clock.

The new schedule calls for the departure of an Empress from Vancouver on Thursdays, Saturdays, and a sailing time from the Mainland port of 11 o'clock instead of noon. This will bring the ships to Victoria about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and have them ready for sea about 5 o'clock.

Striding the bridge of the Pacific flagship when she docked here to-day was a familiar figure, although not familiar on the biggest of the Pacific Empresses, for Capt. A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., was only transferred to the Empress of Canada to-day. He was formerly skipper of the Empress of Asia and is now permanently on the Canada, replacing Capt. Samuel Robinson, R.N.R., who is to command the new liner Empress of Japan.

CAPT. A. J. HAILEY, R.N.R.

FAIR PASSENGER LIST

The big white liner had a passenger list of 382 persons aboard for the voyage. Of these, seventy-eight passengers are in the first cabin, twenty-nine in the second, twenty-five in third and 250 in the steerage.

Among the passengers who will enjoy the ocean passage to Honolulu and the Orient are: G. S. Beebe, W. H. Siegfried and Arthur Hillier, prominent tea merchants from New York, on a buying trip to the Orient; J. Eaton of the Standard Oil Company of New York; with Mrs. Eaton; J. M. Barwick of London, England; Dr. and Mrs. Spence, Colonel M. H. Logan, Frank C. Hogg of Irwin, Harrison & Whitney of New York; H. T. S. Green of the International Banking Corporation of New York; A. C. Fleming of the Electric Share and Bond Corporation of New York; George and J. G. Ryan, Mrs. W. J. Marshall, Miss Patricia and Miss Joan Marshall and Master Walter Marshall of New York.

When the ship reaches Honolulu next Wednesday evening a party of thirty-five native Hawaiian Boy Scouts will embark on the Empress for a trip to the Orient, where in Yokohama they will attend an Oriental convention of Boy Scouts.

Trading Vessel For Far North Leaves Denmark

Seattle, April 17.—Laden with coke and other freight, the Danish motorship Karise sailed from Copenhagen March 24 for Seattle to join the Swenson fleet of Siberian fur traders. The vessel is expected here by June 1. She is commanded by Capt. A. P. Johimsson, who was ice pilot of the Seattle fur trader Relief, lost on the Arctic coast of Siberia August 11 last year.

R. S. Pollister, vice-president of the Swenson Fur Trading Company, who purchased the Karise in Copenhagen, is on his way home and will arrive in Seattle Sunday. He was aboard the Relief when she was lost in the Siberian Arctic. The Karise is a staunch vessel built of oak and equipped with a Holsby Diesel engine. She will be operated between Seattle and the Siberian Arctic.

Eastern Waterways Prepare For Spring

Montreal, Que., April 17.—The Gazette to-day publishes the following dispatch from Ottawa:

Marine activity on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River will be fully resumed within the next week.

A telephone survey made by the Department of Marine and Fisheries yesterday showed that 2,000 lighthouses keepers were going to their posts. That 30,000 men who are employed on ships were being recruited for the season of navigation just opening; that thousands of dollars were being spent on provisions, clothing and fuel; that vessels were being painted, cleaned and made ship shape; that the first tramp steamers were on the Atlantic bound for Montreal; and that the first ocean liner would reach that port a week from to-day.

CUTTERS HAVE RUSH ERRANDS

Grounded Tanker and Disabled Fishing Ship Keep Coastguard Busy

Seattle, April 17.—With a tanker ashore in the Columbia River, a fishing schooner disabled and adrift off the Washington coast and a large scow floating in the coastal steamship lanes, a menace of navigation, the Coast Guard had a busy time yesterday afternoon and to-day.

The tanker ashore in the Columbia River was the H. T. Harper, which grounded off Harrington Point while bound from San Francisco to Portland. Part of the vessel's cargo was pumped into another tanker and she was refloated by the cutter Redwing, from Astoria.

The cutter Snohomish went to the assistance of the fishing schooner Robin of Seattle, which was disabled by the loss of her propeller off the Washington coast Tuesday afternoon. The Robin was picked up by the Snohomish at 2.35 p.m. and towed to Neah Bay. The schooner has a crew of seven men. Capt. Paul Chalder is her master.

Coast Guard cutters yesterday were searching for a scow that broke away from the salvage steamship Homer of Seattle, which had been salvaging the cargo of the Japanese freighter Rhine Maru, wrecked on the rocks at Point St. March 28. The scow was last seen adrift in the steamship lanes off Garmel, Cal.

Story of Christ to Be Told in Song By Many Choirs To-morrow

Colorful Cantatas Will Be Rendered Good Friday Night

Ministerial Association Will Hold Annual Joint Service To-morrow Morning at First Baptist Church; Five Churches Offer Choral Masterpieces at Evening Services; Illustrated Lectures on Easter Themes To Be Given.

The annual Good Friday united service, sponsored by the Ministerial Association of Victoria, will be held to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock at the First Baptist Church. The address will be given by Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell, pastor of Metropolitan Church, and the service will be conducted by Rev. Hugh Nixon, assisted by Rev. H. E. Luntrell, Rev. A. J. Vincent and Adjutant Merritt.

Rendition of sacred cantatas by the choir of a majority of the larger churches will be the feature of the evening services to-morrow, there being five splendid programmes by the choir of Metropolitan, St. John's, St. Andrew's, St. Mary's and Emmanuel churches.

Illustrated lectures will be given at the evening services at Christ Church Cathedral, St. Barnabas Church and the Salvation Army Citadel.

The following programmes have been arranged for to-morrow:

Christ Church Cathedral
Six services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral on Good Friday. An early morning service at 7:30 o'clock, another for children and young people at 9:15, and morning prayer with sermon at 10:30 will be followed by the three hours' service at 12 noon; evening prayer at 5:15 and a lantern service at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The services have been arranged at hours to suit the convenience of as many people as possible who wish to spend some time during the day in remembrance of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ on the first Good Friday nineteen hundred years ago.

The Archdeacon of Columbia, Ven. E. P. Laycock, will preach the sermon at the 10:30 o'clock service. The three hours' service, lasting from 12 noon until 3 p.m., will be conducted by the Rev. Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan. Addresses at this service will be based on "The Seven Words of Christ from the Cross." Those who attend after 12 o'clock are requested to enter or leave during the singing of the hymns.

At the lantern service at 8 o'clock, to be conducted by the Archdeacon, scenes from famous pictures of the Passion and Crucifixion of Christ will be shown.

St. John's Church
Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be rendered by the choir in St. John's Church on Good Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The choir will have the assistance of Joseph Moore, who will undertake the tenor part of the oratorio. Mr. Moore has taken leading parts in great masterpieces on many occasions in South Africa, having a robust tenor of wide range, with a quality capable of expressing the tenderest shades of meaning.

The bass solo parts will be sustained by A. W. Palmer and J. P. French. There will be morning prayer at 10:30 o'clock, with an address by the Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick.

St. Barnabas
At St. Barnabas Church the services will include the Stations of the Cross at 9 o'clock; a service for children at 10, and matins at 11 o'clock.

There will be a three-hour service from noon until 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. H. Short, warden of the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver. In the evening at 7:15 o'clock a lecture will be given on the life of Christ, which will be illustrated with lantern slides.

St. Mary's, Oak Bay
Services to-morrow in St. Mary's will include matins at 9:30 and litany, anti-communion and sermon at 11 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock the choir will render "The Stations of the Passion," a devotional work by Dr. Ham of Toronto, which has not yet been given in Victoria. Several well-known hymns are interspersed in this cantata, in the singing of which the congregation will be asked to join.

St. Alban's Church
Services at St. Alban's, Oaklands, will include a service for children at 10:30 o'clock, matins, litany and anti-communion at 11:45 o'clock, and at 2:30 o'clock a half-hour of meditation on the "Last Words of Christ from the Cross." At 8 o'clock there will be an evening service with an address, and "The Story of the Cross" will be sung.

Garrison Church
Good Friday services at St. Paul's Garrison Church, Esquimalt, will be litany and anti-communion with sermon at 10:30 a.m., and a short service for children at 2:30 o'clock. At 7:30 o'clock Deaconess Simcox will give an address in the church house on "Holy Land."

Metropolitan Church
Lovers of sacred music will be attracted by the choir of this church to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock by the choir. The theme is "The Darkest Hour," by Harold Moore, and the soloists will be: Mrs. Edward Parsons, soprano, narrator; Frank Tupman, tenor, Pilate; and Dr. T. H. Johns, baritone, Jesus. The programme is as follows: Prologue; Chorus, "Now, My Soul,"

WHAT DOES THE DEATH OF CHRIST MEAN TO YOU?

A Good Friday-Easter Message
By H. J. A.

For years I had numbered myself among the great multitude who like Christians in the Pilgrim's Progress, had "stood at the cross and wondered." Wondered why Jesus had to die such a death. Of course He was crucified on the cross because that was the way they put people to death in those days. I wondered why we could not have been saved in some other way. Yes, the death of Jesus was to me a very great mystery. As a boy and a youth and even during later years I had received the impression that the death of Jesus could not be understood. There was a depth that human thought could not fathom, and a darkness surrounding it that the human eye could not pierce. I remember a verse in one of Charles Wesley's hymns that made this impression stronger:

"Tis mystery all: the Immortal dies,
Who can explain His strange design?
In vain the first-born seraph tries
To sound the depths of Love Divine:
'Tis mercy all, let earth adore,
Let angel minds inquire no more!"

In spite of all the books that have been written, and all the sermons that have been preached, it would be interesting and probably alarming to discover just how many or how few Christians people so understand the death of Christ, that the understanding they possess really satisfies it might be ventured to say that to-day multitudes of professing Christian people look upon the death of Jesus upon the cross as a great mystery that cannot be solved. And yet should this be so? It seems that only upon a helpful understanding of what put Jesus on the cross, and a realization of what was accomplished by the death of our Lord, can be built a faith and a devoted and enthusiastic discipleship.

Can you write the word "Adequate" across your understanding of the death of your Lord and Master?

To do this we have to go back to the time when Jesus came into the appointed ministry. He came into the world, which was not a happy one, at least for multitudes of people. That was the reason why He came. He was unafraid into a world of errors and sighs, with songs and angels. The world of that day was wrong. Things were not right politically and religiously. The supreme forces of that heart of God, and many people felt the sting of a cruel rod.

"Froud Caesar came in strength of steel,
At his command men poured forth life:
The cities perished, nations fell;
He left an heritage a blood-stained tide.
He came, he scorned, he satiated,
And he died."

Jesus came into a world that was wrong in its religion. We go unto the man who here oppose the religious customs of that day. Worship was mechanical and lifeless and perfunctory and merely traditional. The Church of that day was under the domination of cold-hearted and hypocritical ecclesiastics. Jesus did not turn His back on the sacred institution because of this. He did not forsake the House of God and begin to worship nature. He did not stay at home and lose interest because the Church was not all that it should be. Nor did He close His eyes so that He could not see conditions that were wrong. No, He bravely faced things as they were. He became burdened with the responsibility. We know some of the reforms which He began to execute, beginning at the House of God. He went in, for example, and cleansed the Temple; being fully aware of what the consequences might be. When Jesus began His work, He saw many things in the world and in the Church, and He was concerned enough to risk all, and in time to give His life. He was fired with one ambition which St. Paul so wonderfully expressed: "Christ loved the Church and gave Himself for it, that He might present it to Himself a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing."

NEW ORDER FOR MANKIND

So He began a constructive programme teaching new commandments. He promised to all who would accept Him, believe His Word and strive to live His programme out in their lives—He promised that they would be forever enriched with a great salvation. He introduced His programme in the synagogue at Nazareth, where He had been brought up. As we read it to-day, we can readily see that it was in great contrast to the one which prevailed. This announcement of a new order of things for humanity revealed the great heart of the God of love.

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon Me, because He hath anointed Me to preach good tidings unto the meek. He hath sent Me to bind up the broken-hearted; to proclaim liberty to the captives; and the opening of the prison to them that are bound. To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God. To comfort all that mourn, to give them beauty for ashes: the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that He might be glorified."

Jesus said some other things, but the passages quoted indicate the kind of programme He had come to carry out. This was the beginning of His work, and the end would be a re-defined kingdom. We know that it met with opposition from the first, and we have to read the astounding words, "And all they in the synagogue when they heard these words were filled with wrath, and rose up and thrust Him out of the city, and led Him unto the brow of the hill, whereon their city was built, that they might cast Him down headlong, but He passing through the midst of them went on His way."

So Jesus was ever to go on His way, and to do His work, until the day came when He would say, "It is finished."

"The meek Christ came, His strength was true,
A heart of love, His panoply,
At His command men found their life,
The cities flourished, nations grew,
As herbage, the reign of peace He gave."
He came; He loved; He pitied;
And He lives."

ment, what I should say. And I know that His commandments to life everlasting." And "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

While the "common people heard Him gladly," bitterness and opposition grew against Him, because of His Gospel, and because of the claims He made, and we know the day came when His enemies concluded that the only way to put a stop to His influence was to put an end to Jesus Himself. They must kill Him and they plotted to this end. To Jesus, however, the blessing He had brought from God for humanity were so wonderful and so great and so needful, and so perfect was His faith in them to redeem humanity that He said to Himself, "I shall never be satisfied till I have proved My faith in their worth and certainty, by giving My life for them." Jesus was to demonstrate to the world that the life He had brought from God was so powerful that it could not be destroyed, not even by death itself. That was His faith. We are reminded that St. Paul was thrilled with this faith of Christ's in the efficacy of the Divine Program, when he said, "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, Who loved me and gave Himself for me."

AWARE OF POWER

All things were in the hands of Jesus. He knew He was in the possession of greater power than all the combined forces that were arrayed against Him. They were human, His were Divine. Earthly powers were of the flesh, His were of the Spirit. One day He said, "Therefore doth My Father love Me, because I lay down My life that I might take it again. No man taketh it from Me; but I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of My Father."

The day came when His enemies got their way. They killed Him, nailing Him to the cruel cross. He was taken down and put in a tomb. But He rose again, as He said He would. "Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up."

CALL OF CHRIST

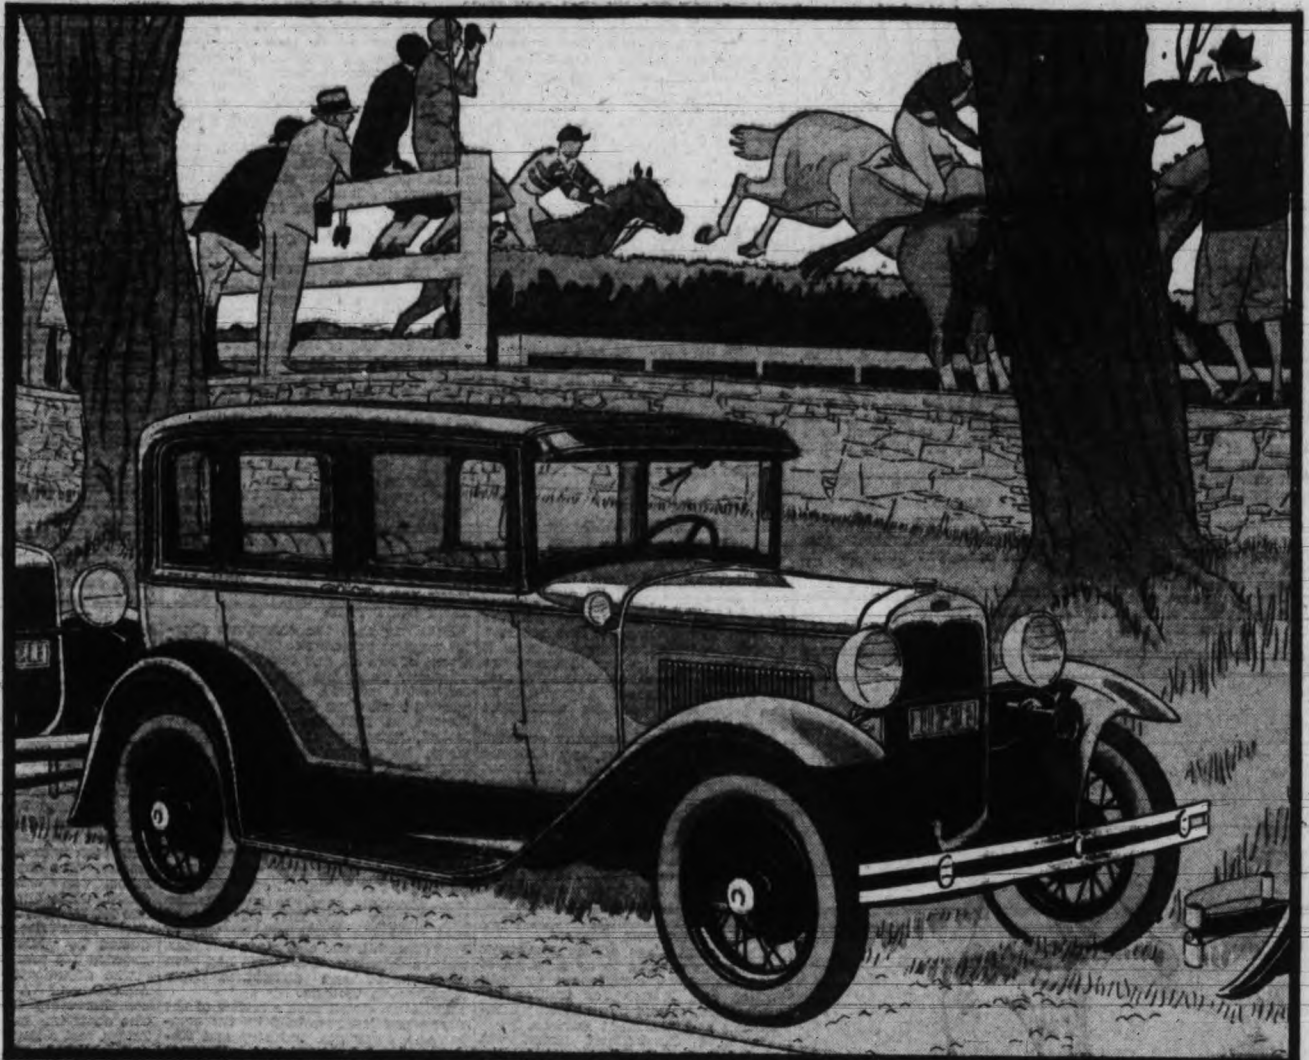

The message of the death of Jesus, and the greater message of the overcoming of that death, is, in the words of Jesus Himself, "Follow Me." This is the unalterable proclamation of both Good Friday and Easter Sunday. Truly following Him guarantees that His promise and His own experience shall be fulfilled in us. "If a man keep My Word, he shall never see death." These words are spoken by the One Who "hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel." When Jesus said, "He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life" He surely meant, "If you will accept Me, believe in My Word, strive to live out My programme in your life, your soul shall possess all-conquering power, and as I lived triumphantly, and overcame death victoriously, so shall you."

To the writer, this is an adequate understanding of the death of Jesus, why He had to die and also what His triumph over death accomplished. The experience of Jesus goes from the cradle to the grave, yes, through the grave into the presence of God at His right hand, but as we pass through this life, the task of the Christian is to help others to understand what the programme of Jesus is, persuade them

VALUE FAR ABOVE THE PRICE

THE FORD TOWN SEDAN

In reviewing the many advantages of the Ford car, it is particularly interesting to note the relation between value and price.

The low first cost is a point to keep in mind at all times because it means a considerable saving to you in the purchase of the car.

Of even greater importance, however, is the reason for this low price and the manner in which it has been achieved without sacrifice of quality or performance.

Every purchaser shares the benefits of the Ford policy of large production at low cost—of selling at a small margin of profit—of constantly giving greater and greater value through the vast Canadian organization that has been built up for the making, selling and servicing of this car.

A new degree of excellence has been brought within reach of all the people through the development of new manufacturing machines and the discovery and working out of new manufacturing methods.

Evidence of this is found in the extremely close limits of measurement maintained in the manufacture of vital parts. Some of these are held true to within a maximum variation of three ten-thousandths of an inch, reducing friction and wear and resulting in greater reliability and longer life.

As the quality of workmanship has been increased through the accuracy of the machine, so has the quality of materials been improved. The savings resulting from new manufacturing economies have been put right back into the car. Through special Ford methods, materials once thought too expensive for a low-price car have been made available for use in the Ford.

Colwood

Morning service, followed by ante-communion, will be held on Good Friday at 11:30 a.m. at St. John's Church, Colwood.

Pipe-Major W. Wishart was the guest of honor at a social gathering Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Parker, "The Cedars," when the committee of the Colwood Burns Club presented him with a handsome pair of driving gloves. On behalf of the committee and their families, Mrs. H. Parker made the presentation, expressing appreciation of the able way Pipe-Major Wishart had worked for the success of the club. Cards were enjoyed during the evening, the winners being Mrs. H. B. Murray and Pipe-Major Wishart, while low scores were held by Mrs. Wishart and H. Parker. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The guests included Pipe-Major and Mrs. Wishart, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wishart, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopwood, Mr. and Mrs. R. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. A. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pierce, Misses Caroline Godfrey, Norma Parker, Jean and Adria Murray, Jessie Erskine, May Wishart, A. Allan, A. Murray, R. Wishart, B. Parker, B. Ward, T. Parker and George Wishart. Gifts of flowers to be used in decoration of the church for Easter Sunday will be welcomed by the church committee, same to be left at the church Saturday morning.

Led to Success of Hudson's Bay Company in Face of All Obstacles

George W. Allan, K.C., Gives Review of Record of Achievement

Highlights from the remarkable history of the Hudson's Bay Company were presented by George W. Allan, K.C., last night at the Victoria High School Auditorium in an address before nearly five hundred leading citizens. The interesting address was given under the auspices of the Canadian Club of Victoria. P. P. Fowler, president, when introducing Mr. Allan, touched upon his long connection with the development of Manitoba and its successful progress.

Mr. Allan remarked that by next May the Hudson's Bay Company will have existed for 200 years, and such a period only the high spots of history could be touched upon. The Hudson's Bay Company had assembled at the London archives a vast mass of material, but efforts to compile a complete record had proven too onerous a task. It had therefore been abandoned in favor of summarizing those historic archives in a form to be issued in periods, to be available to all writers desiring to deal with accuracy with the development of the Northwest and the Hudson's Bay Company.

Touching upon the navigation into Hudson Bay, Mr. Allan said that only twice in the first century of the company's existence had sailing vessels been unable to enter the bay, while no year in the last 180 years had the company's vessels failed to make the bay. He told of the outfitting in 1668 of the ketch Nonouch, by Prince Rupert and his associates, and the resultant incorporation in 1670 of the Hudson's Bay Company, following the success of the first venture in founding Fort St. Charles, later known as Rupert House.

The first century of the company saw ships sent to Hudson Bay with goods to exchange for furs, this period being one of almost continuous warfare with the French.

FIRST TO SEE BUFFALO

In 1688 Henry Kelsey began his explorations, being the first white man to see the prairies and the buffalo, preceding the French by many years. He told of the construction of a stone fort at Fort Churchill, reputed at the time to be the strongest fort in North America. Mr. Allan suggested that, if the Prince of Wales should accept the invitation to open Fort Churchill, that the event take place on August 6, 1931, the tercentenary of the first Fort Prince of Wales.

He told how the company operated for forty years before any dividend was paid stockholders, and remarked that only British bulldog persistency caused the company to continue after the French had repeatedly destroyed nearly all its posts and strongholds. The major reason why charter had been given the company was for opening the Northwest passage, rather than to get behind the French in Canada, yet it was not until 250 years had passed before Amundsen successfully made the Northwest passage.

The second stage of the company's history was ushered in by a period of near-bankruptcy experienced by both British and French fur trading organizations, caused by unhealthy competition and persistent warfare.

In 1774 Cumberland House was created, being the first post in the Interior, and in 1811 Lord Selkirk was granted a vast tract of 116,000 square miles, which included much of Minnesota, for the founding of the Red River settlement.

SIR GEORGE SIMPSON

Mr. Allan credited Sir George Simpson with a status in Canada equivalent to the recognition accorded Cecil Rhodes in the affairs of South Africa. Incidentally Mr. Allan said the Hudson's Bay Company would shortly resume occupation of old Fort Garry, where Sir George resided for many years as chief factor. "He was a great fur trader and a great administrator. Under his guiding hand the country was always for King and Empire and law and order," he said, reciting the long array of able lieutenants developed by Sir George during his administration.

During that period the company established posts in Oregon, Washington, California, Montana, Minnesota, the Sandwich Islands, Alaska, and Siberia, his forty years of office being as notable for the wide expansion attained as for the harmony the great leader established out of the chaotic conditions he found when he took over direction of affairs.

The creation by Sir George Simpson of Fort Vancouver on the Columbia River was touched upon, together with a reference to the British naval report of the capture of the country did not justify the expenses involved in compliance with requests for a military garrison.

GREAT PROGRESS

Development of farms, mines and industries on the Pacific, to supply the company's posts was recalled, and the company's history touched upon the foundation of Victoria.

The final sixty-year period of the company's career opened with surrender to the Crown in 1869 of its sovereignty over its great land holdings, with reservation of certain rights, its posts and specified sections throughout the prairies. The company now operates over 300 trading posts and stores, has great fleets of vessels of many types, and conducts fox-farming, sealing operations, wholesale establishments, departmental stores and has an energetic lands department, having 2,500,000 acres of farm lands for disposal.

The Hudson's Bay Company's outstanding contribution to the Great War had been the transportation of supplies, over 100 vessels being torpedoed. The entire transport service between France and Canada had been provided by the company.

Mr. Allan told of the firm yet peaceful methods of the company in its dealings with Indian tribes, as contrasted with the bloodshed of the development of the Western and Southern States of the Union.

As a result of the company's fur policies the recent catches have exceeded, both in quantity and value, the catches of earlier years.

He remarked that it was a popular pastime to assert that the Hudson's Bay Company had exploited northwestern Canada, yet it was a fact that proprietors had put into Canadian business more capital than it had ever taken out.

BEST DUTY PAID

Recalling that the company's charter requires payment to His Majesty of a rent of two elk and two black beaver whenever he or his heirs entered the territories granted, Mr. Allan commented that when King George visited Canada in 1909 the rent was overlooked, "an act of lax looseness" which he deprecated. He had been determined that the Prince of Wales on his last visit should receive his dues, but live animals being too awkward to handle, the matter had been compounded with a payment in mounted heads.

Recently the Hudson's Bay Company had shipped to England from Fort Churchill a consignment of wheat, the first shipment over the new Hudson Bay Railway. The first shipment of sold from the Northwest by way of Fort Churchill was also made last year, while a shipment of blankets had been sent to the Northwest distributed from Winnipeg to Victoria.

Mr. Allan closed with a review of the strong position now held by the company in commerce, industry and finance, earned by persistent adherence to established policies.

Of thanks to Mr. Allan, recalled that thirty-seven years had passed since he commenced to study law in Mr. Allan's office in Victoria, where none of his fellow-workers had foreseen the high achievements to mark the career of their chief. "Mr. Allan is one of the big men of Canada, one of the makers of Canada," he summarized.

R. Ross Sutherland, when seconding the vote, recalled that his father, with Mr. Allan's father, had sat together in the Canadian Senate, both being called to the chamber at Confederation.

OTTAWA ISSUES REVENUE AND TRADE REPORTS

Ottawa, April 17.—Canada's total exports of Canadian produce for the fiscal year 1929-30 reached a value of $1,100,800,122, as compared with $1,383,709,672 for the previous fiscal year. This shows a falling off of $283,449,550 in the export trade. The total value of foreign produce reported in the last fiscal year was $24,677,947 and the year before $25,184,403. These figures were made public by the Department of National Revenue yesterday.

The total value of goods imported for consumption in Canada in the year 1929-30 was $1,349,976 and in the year before $1,265,639,874. The total imports for consumption exceeded the value of Canadian produce exported by $129,162,852.

The greatest falling off in exports last year as compared with the year before was in wheat and wheat flour. The value of the wheat exported dropped from $428,520,329 in 1928-29 to $215,753,475 in 1929-30 and wheat flour dropped from $65,117,779 to $45,457,195 during the same period.

CUSTOMS FIGURES

Total revenue from customs and excise in Canada for the fiscal year 1929-30 was $308,659,808.75, according to the statement. The returns for the year 1928-29 were $328,877,918.12. Decrease for the year just closed as compared with the previous fiscal year was $20,218,107.87.

INCOME TAX

Income tax collections for the last fiscal year were $69,020,751.72, an increase of $9,598,453.95 over the fiscal year of 1928-29.

The total net revenue for the month of March, 1930, was $23,282,040.12, a decrease of $5,132,390 as compared with March, 1929. The month's revenue consisted of: Customs duties, $14,369,198.71; excise taxes, $4,072,118.78; excise duties, $4,449,827.89; sundry collections, $360,823.78.

Saanich Schools Tie For Singing Honors

Singing competitions conducted yesterday evening at Saanich Hall, between junior choirs from three rural schools of Saanich, resulted in Gordon Head and West Saanich each being awarded 166 points. The tie was discovered too late to allow a trial and each school will be awarded a trophy. The choir from West Saanich school was conducted by Charles O'Neil, while the Gordon Head choir was led by Miss Marjorie Watson. The choir from Saanich school, conducted by Miss C. MacNab, was awarded 148 marks.

The adjudicators, Alfred Gurney, A.R.C.O. and W. C. Pyle, were highly complimentary in their comments. The chair was taken by Trustee H. L. Briggs, and a large audience of parents and children witnessed the competitions.

In addition to the numbers by the choir, selections were rendered by Miss M. Morton and Dr. and Mrs. Johns.

Has All

George, whose only means of support was his rich father, was being married. Everything went well until the bridegroom had to repeat the words: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow."

The congregation was then startled to hear a moan from his father. "Gordon," he muttered, "There goes his bicycle."

How to Keep Fit at "Fifty"

No Need Now to Grow Old Simply Through Passing Years.
Here's a Test to Prove It.

Men and women in this modern age are just as old as their Nerve Force—no older, no younger. You may be old at thirty, or young at fifty or sixty.

Old age and the disease that old age invites stalks in the path of every person past forty, who permits Nerve Force to run low. They are ready victims of Paralysis, Apoplexy, Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Trouble, Sciatica and many other dangerous ailments.

Youthful vigor, energy, ambition and power stay with people at any age who keep their Nerve Force running strong. In what class are you? Check-up. Then make this simple, easy test:

Every leading druggist in this city now offers, under binding guarantee, a new scientific preparation called Erbac (double strength). Its action is simply on the nerve cells. Its purpose is to build up youthful nerve-resisting nerve force and power. It is a sure, safe, and reliable nerve tonic. It is not a sedative to lull over-sensitized nerves to sleep, nor a stimulant to excite nerves to twenty days to expect results. But if you want nerve of steel, the power of youth, and are willing to pay at the rate of ten cents a day for twenty days, and have the courage to make the test, your own druggist will supply you with a twenty days' test of Erbac (double strength) on this guarantee. Use it for twenty days, and then if you do not feel at least ten years younger, and if your ability and endurance have not increased at least 100 per cent, your money will be refunded. Erbac (double strength) is especially designed for folks past forty. If you have reached that age and want results, make this test without delay.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gibbons entertained at their home on Third Street Saturday night in honor of their son Arthur's birthday. The event was in the form of a surprise party, and about twenty-five of the younger folk gathered and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ashley celebrated the anniversary of their wedding on Saturday in the form of a social evening at the residence of W. Stacey, Fifth Street. About twenty relatives and friends were present, and a jolly evening was spent in games and dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fiddler, Third Street, moved to Victoria on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. D. Parry of Deep Cove left on Monday to reside in Vancouver.

A. S. Warrender, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, returned to his duties after spending a two months' vacation. Mr. Warrender was relieved by W. Johnson, who returned to Victoria on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Couture returned to their home on Madrona Drive, Deep Cove, this week after spending the winter months in Victoria.

Far North Seeks B.C. Strawberries

One of the most recent inquiries for the processed frozen strawberries of the Saanich Peninsula comes from Mayo, Yukon Territory, and requests information as to the nature of the berries, and the prospects of shipment to the far north.

W. W. Duncan, market commissioner for the Province, has sent forward a trial shipment of 3 dozen cartons of B.C. berries, to see how the product will stand the long journey to the Yukon Territory.

Mr. Duncan is of the opinion that the north may be served with fresh fruit by this means. He suggests that a shipment be prepared and forwarded early in the fall, where they could be carried through the winter months, and serve as an unusual delicacy.

WORLD'S RECORD TRAIN TIME

CANADA is setting the pace for the world. A train revision programme announced by the Canadian National Railways to go into effect on April 27, includes new trains between Montreal and Toronto that will be the fastest in the world covering a like distance. The famous International Limited, travelling westward, and the Interoceanic, travelling eastward, will speed over the 334 miles of track between Montreal and Toronto in 360 minutes. Leaving these terminals at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. respectively, and arriving at destination six hours later, these trains will enable the business man in either city to put in practically a full day's work at his desk and reach the other city that same evening. With this world-record link in the route, the Canadian National will afford the Canadian public new fast service to Chicago and U.S. border cities, and through connection with the Confederation, there will be a big saving in time to Winnipeg. The International Limited will make the run to Chicago four hours less than under the old schedule. To and from Buffalo and Detroit, improvements are also effected. By taking the International to Toronto and joining the Confederation there the traveler will be able to reach Winnipeg from Montreal with the loss of virtually only one business day in travel. The Confederation is to be speeded up by one hour between Toronto and Winnipeg and by three hours between Toronto and Vancouver. The running time of the Continental Limited, Montreal to Vancouver will also be shortened up.

Horoscope
FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1930
Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction. Benefic aspects dominate.
Under this sway men in positions of authority probably will have unusual success in starting big projects and in introducing courageous reforms.
The planetary government should be most fortunate for those who already have attained success. For the average person the sway is not particularly promising.
While this configuration prevails women should devote attention to the small duties and everyday tasks, for the stars do not seem to preface success in public affairs.
Although the stars promise that Canadian women will move and more generally enter business and the professions, this year may not be favorable to initiative.
This is not a favorable wedding day or wedding date, since change of mind is common under this direction of the stars.
Again oil and oil interests come under a lucky sway. Great combinations of producers and stockholders are inevitable, according to astrology.
Nepitune is in an aspect read as presaging continued activity regarding law enforcement, and a sensational effort to meet national difficulties should be successful, if
it is forecast.
Theaters may find this period exceedingly difficult because of changing policies and new organizations.
African possessions will cause much trouble for European powers before the end of the year, if the stars are wisely read.
Uranus in Aries is read as presaging a year of peace in Europe.
Persons who birthdate it is have the sweaty of a year of success in work or finances, but they should be careful in writing of personal affairs.
Nepitune is in an aspect read as pre-
saging continued activity regarding law enforcement, and a sensational effort to meet
national difficulties should be successful, if
it is forecast.

Macaroni makes an excellent "filler" for many varieties of salads. Fruit, meat or vegetables combined with macaroni or spaghetti provides a delicious and nourishing concoction.
There are innumerable shapes such as stars, bows, seashells, elbows, alphabets and many others fashioned from the macaroni. These shapes are available in Canadian-made brands as well as the imported ones and add much to the attractiveness of the salad.
Careful cooking of macaroni is essential when it is to be used in a salad.
If fancy shapes are used, be sure they are not broken, and if stick macaroni is used, be sure it is not broken.
The macaroni should be made in the paste is cooked in the stock and cut in short lengths after draining and cooling.
Luncheon Salad
One cup macaroni cooked and chilled. 2 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup diced celery, 1 stuffed olive, salad dressing, shredded lettuce.
Chop eggs and cut olives in slices crosswise. Combine macaroni, celery, egg and olives with salad dressing to make moist. Serve on a bed of shredded leaf lettuce and top with a spoonful of salad dressing. Garnish with slices of stuffed olives.
Choose olives stuffed with pimiento for the sake of the color.

HOW IT IS COOKED
Cook macaroni, drop it into a large kettle of rapidly boiling water.
Boil rapidly until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain through a colander and rinse in plenty of cold water. This makes the cooked paste white and firm. Of course, this rinsing in cold water washes off some of the free starch from the macaroni, but it is free of any trace of stickiness.
Chill macaroni and all other ingredients thoroughly before combining them.
In planning meals in which a macaroni salad is used, whole wheat sandwiches or toast is suitable for the breakfast. A cream soup and a fruit dessert served with a hearty macaroni salad furnish a well balanced and nourishing meal.
Dinner Food
Cook figs, dates or raisins with your cereal about twice a week and you will notice how the children consume their portions clear to the last spoonful.

TELLS VALUE OF INSURANCE
ASSOCIATION

R. McInnes, Dominion President of Life Underwriters, Addresses Local Club Association Develops Ethics and Adds to Prestige of Profession
The work of the Canadian Life Underwriters Association in building up the prestige of life insurance business by enforcing ethical practices and carrying on the profession in a humanitarian way, was outlined by Robert McInnes, Dominion president of the Life Underwriters Association, at the local body's luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day.
Mr. McInnes paid tribute to the work of western Canadian clubs, saying that many beneficial suggestions and projects had originated in the west. However, he continued, while many underwriters thought the Ontario branches did too much power, he voiced his conviction that the majority of them were working along idealistic lines to benefit the business.
The profession was gaining greater strength from legislative legislation now being reviewed by the Dominion Government. Mr. McInnes stated. He outlined the proposed bill which he expected to see before the House at its next session. This was framed to punish those who transgressed the insurance laws. The speaker asked several indictments which the Government had placed upon unfair insurance writers. In this work the Government's advisory board played a conspicuous part.

ELIMINATE BAD PRACTICES
The formation of the Life underwriters associations in 1907 had eliminated, to a great extent, the misrepresentation, twisting of policies and rebating practiced by some agents in the old days, the speaker said. Thus it had increased the dignity of the profession and offered educational opportunities to men in the insurance field.
Another factor in favor of the association was found in the beneficial contact it furnished between the field men and their superintendents. Such gatherings as luncheons brought about a closer appreciation of each other's difficulties and tended to a bigger ideal of co-operation.
The speaker referred to the work of the insurance men in assisting in civic life. The writing of policies tended to stabilize the financial resources of the insured persons, he said.
Contrasting the view held by some non-members of the association that there was too much hypocrisy in the organization, Mr. McInnes stated that the association would not have lasted as long as it had if it had been founded upon such a foundation.
George Dyon expressed the association's appreciation of Mr. McInnes's address. He also extended the club's welcome to J. T. McCoy, honorary president of the association.
Mr. McCoy expressed his pleasure at being able to attend the meeting.

WHAT DOES THE DEATH OF

to accept it, by faith in Him as their Saviour and Lord, and live it out. Thus by the growth of this practical Christianity, the inculcation of those Life-giving Principles He brought to humanity, demonstrating in His own life
His immortality, shall the purpose of God in Jesus become more and more fulfilled. To all who take Him as His Word, Jesus makes an all-inclusive promise. "And I will give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of My hand."

U.S. Senate Told By Dill
World-wide Trust Is Plan
Washington, April 17.—Owen D.
Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, was charged in the Senate to-day by Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, with seeking to form a "world-wide radio trust."
Through the proposed trust, affiliations of the General Electric, and the Radio Corporation of America.
Senator Dill said the proposed arrangements would permit the General Electric to dominate the radio corporation of America and all its subsidiaries.
He recalled attention to the relation of Mr. Young to the newly-formed world bank.
"Only one more step is needed to complete the world-wide radio trust
the Young is building," he continued.
"He is in a position to dominate the world bank and to use the exclusive contracts which the Radio Corporation has with the other nations of the world except Russia."

Governor Visits
Liner in Vancouver
Vancouver, April 17.—Starting with a visit to the liner Empress of Canada this morning, Lord and Lady Willingdon prepared for an active afternoon following luncheon on their own train at the Canadian National Railway station.
They planned to play golf at Langara and bedminster at Jericho Club. Col.
A. Hiam, assistant to the president of the Canadian National, will be their host at dinner at his residence.
Friday's programme includes attendance by the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon at morning service at St. Mary's Church and luncheon as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hamber.
Roberts (in fashionable restaurant):
My plate is wet.
Walter: That's your soup, sir.
NEW U.S. CRUISERS
Washington, April 17.—Representative
French, of Idaho, chairman of the important naval appropriations sub-committee, to-day said President Hoover was expected to penalize the navy by downing three of the first five cruisers in the fifteen cruiser programme within between thirty and sixty days.
"I suppose you have meant to suit every purse," the customer inquired.
"Yes," replied the butcher, "I cater for everybody."
"What do you have for an empty purse?" asked the customer.
"In that case I generally give the cold shoulder," the butcher answered.

EARLY SEEDING OPERATIONS Ouelph, Ont. April 17.—Employees of the Ontario Agricultural College established a precedent for the college year-today by starting seeding operations in the field husbandry experimental plots. This is three days earlier than the average date for the commencement of seeding by the department in the last forty years.

Stone to Be Chosen For C.N.R.
Vancouver Hotel
Vancouver, April 17.—Decision has been reached by C.N.R. executives to build the exterior of the Canadian National hotel here of the finest cut stone in consequence, tenders have been called for what will be one of the largest stone buildings jobs ever undertaken in western Canada. This was announced to-day by Col. E. J.
Ryan, president of the E. J. Ryan Contracting Company Limited.
The calling of the tenders for stone has an even more important significance.
For it is specified that delivery and placement of the material must be complete within twelve months after the awarding of the contract. As tenders will close on May 15, it means that by June, 1931, the stone facade of the structure will be complete.

Passover Feast
OBSERVED HERE
Concluding Service This Week-end at Jewish Synagogue
With a sermon on "The Unwritten Law," by Rabbi Jack Levy, the Jewish Feast of the Passover will conclude on Sunday at the Synagogue here.
This celebration, known in Hebrew as "Pesach," commemorates the freeing of the children of Israel from the yoke of slavery under which they were held.
The Bible prescribes seven days' observance of the holiday, commencing the eating of unleavened bread throughout this period.
"Passover also is a sign of spring, which was always greeted with festivity by the Israelites in Palestine. It was the time of reaping the barley harvest and the people brought the first fruits of the harvest to the temple and offered them to God with joy and thanksgiving."

Belfast, Northern Ireland, April 17.— Hundreds of inmates of the Antrim Insane Asylum, twenty miles from Belfast, had to be removed last night when the building caught fire.
More than one panic threatened,
but attendants accomplished the difficult task of removing the patients without a life being lost.
ENDS HIS LIFE
Seattle, April 17.—John E. Ross, forty-five, Seattle cannery operator, today shot himself to death as his family men preparations to move to California. Ross had suffered a nervous breakdown recently, members of the family said.
RIGHT OF WAY
Toronto, April 17.—Funeral processions in future will have the right of

VANCOUVER TO SEE VICTORIA
MODEL LEAGUE

Students of Victoria High Who Presented Model Assembly, Will Appear Victoria's Model Assembly, patterned on that of the League of Nations, will be presented in Vancouver next Tuesday evening in the Civic Auditorium. Forty-two students from Victoria High School will journey to Vancouver to present the assembly at the invitation of the B.C. Federation of Teachers, meeting there next week.
Following the demonstration given by the students in the High School early this year, considerable interest was taken in the project in provincial educational circles. During the presentation the young students delivered the addresses of the different leagumembers in their original language with remarkable success and gave a clear exhibition of the manner in which business is being transacted by the assembly.

In addition to the forty-two speakers from Victoria, 180 will be selected from Vancouver high schools.
The Victoria students will be billeted at Mrs. McInnes, who is largely responsible for the securing of the young men for the event.
Miss Sadie Boyles, former teacher at Victoria High School, and at present on the staff of the King Edward High, with Miss Dorothy Arsenault, and J.
Reid of South Vancouver, will take charge of the advertising for the function.
The presentation will be the first of its kind ever given in Vancouver and is expected to be greeted with considerable enthusiasm by educationists of that city.

PLAN STEADILY
IS EXTENDED
Vancouver, April 17.—More than half the persons in British Columbia who have reached the age of seventy since old age pensions have been in force in the province have drawn pensions.
E. H. Winn, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation, Old Age Pension and Mothers' Pension Board, told a large audience in the Eagles' Hall here last night.
This year the board would disburse approximately $1,300,000 in old age pensions, Mr. Winn said. There were 1,389 persons drawing funds from the board now.

Los Angeles, April 17.—Robert Busan, district attorney's under-cover agent in the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock swindle investigation, was jointly reported to-day by the county autopsy surgeon and the county chemist to have "died from an undetermined poison," which they identified as a

S.P.C.A. Hears of Cruelty; Hard Winter Proved Bad
For Stock
The monthly meeting of the S.P.C.A. was held at the society's room, Arden Building on Tuesday evening, the president, John Harvey, being in the chair.
The inspector's report showed much work done during the last month, forty-three cases having been attended and 455 animals and birds inspected.
He reported that, owing to the hard winter, some stock had come through in poor condition but that with the spring growth of new feed, they were now picking up.

PEACE PACT TO SWELL PROFITS OF GANGSTERS
Capone and Moran Crowds in Chicago Said to Have Amalgamated Underworld Figure Killed in Auto By Band in Another Car Chicago, April 17.—A peace pact to swell the profits and end the war among gangsters and another deadly patter of machine gun bullets from a "pay" car gave gangsters answer today to the joint efforts of police and business men to smother Chicago's crime.
While the city was reading the first accounts of a consolidation of the position of gangs for a monopoly of the control of liquor, vice and gambling, an automobile sped through south side streets after a fleeing quarry. The smaller car was overtaken and from the "Pay" car came a spray of machine gun bullets.
A score of bullets struck the driver,
and he slumped over the wheel, dead.
Joseph Blew, fifty, "king of pickpocket-ery" fifteen years ago and long known to the police as a mail robber, safe blower and more lately a bootlegger, had been "paid off" for reputed meddling in the liquor trade or double crossing of pals in some sinister foreign robbery.
ALL FOR AL
But peace was supposed to reign in Gangland. In the places where the underworld "mobs" gather to take their orders and pay homage to their chiefs, they gathered last night to celebrate an amalgamation of one of the gang and and, The Herald and Examiner said, acknowledge "Scarface" Al Capone as king. Their toast was "All for Al and Al for all." The Union was affected a convulsion of one of the gang and "Bugs" Moran gang leaders, whose enmity has been blamed for scores of killings in recent years.
The terms of the purported pact call for a "community chest" in which the ill-gotten receipts from the beer and vice trade will be poured and from which will flow in organized manner
the tribute, necessary for protection.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Sidney Ridd was fined $10 in City Police Court this morning for driving a motorcar to the common danger on Gorge Road.

The Provincial Museum will be closed on Good Friday, but open as usual from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. on Saturday and Easter Monday.

D. Crombie, transportation chief of the Canadian National Railways, arrived here to-day from the mainland. He is registered at the Empress Hotel while in the city.

The regular week-day schedule for street car services will be in effect to-morrow and on Easter Monday, officers of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company this morning announced.

Permit was issued at the City Hall this afternoon to the Baker Brick and Tile Company for additional office and display space, to cost $1,000. The addition will be 30x40 feet in extent.

Owing to the brisk demand for reservations the Alaska Washington Airways B.C. Limited will run an extra aeroplane trip to-morrow leaving Vancouver at 11 a.m. and leaving Victoria at 1 p.m.

Hiram Singh, charged with driving to the common danger following an automobile accident, was again remanded in City Police Court this morning. On request of his counsel, F. C. Elliott, the hearing was set for April 25.

A decree absolute was granted to Dorothy Beatrice Little, petitioner, suing Louis Archibald Little for divorce before Mr. Justice Murphy in the Supreme Court to-day. W. C. Moreaby, K.C., appeared for the petitioner in an undefended hearing.

Men and women to help in the annual brightening up of homes and gardens for this spring season, in connection with Clean-up Week, April 21-25, are available through the Employment Service of Canada, Victoria branch, telephone 184. By special arrangement the bureau will secure bonfire permits where requested, so that refuse may be burned as collected.

Three sons of the late Dr. Edward Atkinson of Leeds, Yorkshire, are being sought here by their brother, John Atkinson of Australia. They are: Edward O. Charles D. T. and Arthur S. D. Atkinson, all of whom are believed to have come here from England. The brother, who is anxious to get in touch with them, has communicated with police here to ascertain their whereabouts.

Brigadier Cummins of the Salvation Army, secretary for men's social work in western Canada, extending from Port Arthur to Vancouver, is visiting Victoria on a tour of inspection. He will conduct a meeting at the Army institution at 525 Johnston Street to-night at 7.30 o'clock. He is well known in Victoria, having been the corps officer in 1900-1901, and the social officer some years later.

OBITUARY

The remains of Kenjo Jikyo will be forwarded on Saturday afternoon to Vancouver, where services will be held and cremation will take place.

The funeral of Joseph Dominick Picanic, who passed away last Sunday, took place this morning, the cortege leaving the Sands Funeral Chapel at 10.45 o'clock and at 11 o'clock services were conducted at Ross Bay Cemetery by Rev. Father A. B. Wood. There was a large gathering of friends and the casket was covered with many beautiful flowers. The pallbearers were: W. Creedy, M. Hannigan, W. Worth and T. Brundson. Interment was made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann McCoy, who passed away at the family residence, Helmsden, Road, yesterday morning, will take place Saturday morning, the cortege leaving the Sands Funeral Chapel at 10.30 o'clock. At 11 o'clock services will be conducted at St. Andrew's Cathedral. The remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

DUTCH EAST INDIES IS GOOD MARKET

Canada's Share of Imports Represents $3,500,000, Says G. R. Heasman

Canned Fish From British Columbia Required By Middle East Countries

Of the three territories in the Middle East coming under the jurisdiction of G. R. Heasman, Canadian trade commissioner at Batavia, Java, the Dutch East Indies presents the largest potential market for Canadian trade.

The total trade for the Dutch East Indies in 1929 amounted to $1,057,000,000.

Exports amounted to $592,000,000 and imports to $465,000,000, leaving a favorable balance of trade of $127,000,000.

Canada's share of the imports of the Dutch East Indies, said Mr. Heasman in an interview at the Empress Hotel to-day, amounts to about $3,500,000.

At the present time Canada's exports to Java consist largely of automobiles, rubber tires, canvas-topped rubber-soled shoes, canned fish from British Columbia, automobiles and motor accessories.

Canada's opportunity for increased trade with Java lies principally in the provision lines and motor accessories.

"Up to the present, British Columbia shippers have been at a very great disadvantage in that no direct steamship service has been available."

Eastern exporters can ship direct from New York. Starting last November, however, the Klavness Line inaugurated a direct service from Vancouver.

Mr. Heasman said he was hopeful that Canadian millers would be able to compete with Australian flour. What is wanted is usually a low-grade flour and the local market of British Columbia is not as large as that of the Dutch East Indies, nor is it as great a potential market, he added.

Malaya has a population of some four and a half million people compared with Java's 35,000,000 or 50,000,000 in the Dutch East Indies. On the other hand, about 2,000,000 of this hood, while behind the meetings of the League there was the distrust bred through centuries. Nevertheless a wonderful accomplishment had been made by the League, correctly termed by General Jan Smuts as "a miracle of history."

Mr. Sullivan spoke of the work done to educate school children of the province and of Canada in the doings of the League of Nations. In matriculation examination papers a question dealing with the League would require twenty-five per cent of the marks. All pupils knew they must be well acquainted with this subject.

Tribute to the work done by officials of the Victoria High School in staging a model of the League, correctly termed by General Jan Smuts as "a miracle of history."

Mr. Sullivan referred to statements by the Governor-General regarding Canada's representation to foreign countries. Canada had no political or financial axe to grind and in meetings of the League or at other sessions of the League of Nations working not only for the good of Canada but for the good of humanity.

The Prince of Wales had told the gathering that V.C.'s in London, that "those who knew war hoped and prayed it would never come again." This remark was cheered to the echo and showed just what war meant to those who experienced it.

Mr. Sullivan touched briefly on the research and humanitarian work of the League of Nations.

TICKET RUSH ON FOR BIG BANQUET FOR OLD BOYS

Herbert Kent to Lead Community Singing; Premier Tolmie to Speak

The rush for tickets for the Central School old boys' reunion banquet at the Empress Hotel on the evening May 23 has started already, Frank Waring, of the committee, announced to-day.

"Our capacity at the banquet hall to accommodate any more," Mr. Waring said, "At the rate applications for tickets are coming in, we will be sold out long before the affair. Registrants are being given first call on the tickets."

It was also announced to-day that Herbert Kent, an old boy of the school, and a conductor of the Arion Club, will lead the community singing at the gathering.

FIREMAN OF VANCOUVER IS KILLED BY FALL

Vancouver, April 17.—Herbert E. Ellis, fireman, musician and war veteran, was fatally injured at 9.20 a.m. to-day when he fell thirty feet from an aerial ladder during practice manoeuvres on Beach Avenue here.

His head struck an iron bar on the ladder truck and less than two hours later he died at St. Paul's Hospital from a fracture of the skull.

The victim, who was thirty-eight years old, leaves a widow and four children.

Fireman Ellis was the driver of the truck.

MIRACLE OF HISTORY IS TALK TOPIC

A. Sullivan Tells Rotarians Value of League of Nations

Praises Model League Assembly at Victoria High School

"A Miracle of Modern History" was the topic of an address by Albert Sullivan, Provincial Inspector of high schools, in an address before Victoria Rotary Club at luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mr. Sullivan gave an eloquent description of the efforts of the League of Nations for world peace and incidentally spoke in glowing terms of the recent model of the League assembly staged at the Victoria High School.

He also pointed to a certain similarity between the workings of the League and of the Rotary International.

Just as the Rotary Club had the golden rule as its guiding spirit, so had the League of Nations at Geneva this motive at the bottom of it. Rotary has branches in sixty-four countries and the League comprised fifty-four nations. There was a difference in that the Rotary Clubs met in world conventions in goodwill and brotherhood, while behind the meetings of the League there was the distrust bred through centuries. Nevertheless a wonderful accomplishment had been made by the League, correctly termed by General Jan Smuts as "a miracle of history."

Mr. Sullivan spoke of the work done to educate school children of the province and of Canada in the doings of the League of Nations. In matriculation examination papers a question dealing with the League would require twenty-five per cent of the marks. All pupils knew they must be well acquainted with this subject.

Many Victorians Taking Advantage of Easter to Travel to Mainland

Hundreds of Outsiders Will Be Here, Making Extra Steamers Necessary

Holiday traffic between Victoria and the mainland for Easter is expected to reach record proportions this year, special steamer accommodation is being arranged to handle a big rush in both directions, and hotels are expecting unusual activity over the week-end.

While many Victorians will visit Seattle, Vancouver, and other nearby towns for the holiday, many large parties, including a number of prominent eastern visitors, will come to the city.

Extra steamers will be operated both out of Victoria to Vancouver and inward from the mainland city to-night to handle the volume of traffic.

A service on which the extra movement will be very noticeable is the seaplane routes from here to Vancouver and Seattle. Practically all available accommodation has been reserved on the planes for to-morrow.

Among the visitors to the city will be J. P. Fowler, a director of the Jamaica Government Railways, who will reach here on Good Friday for a short stay at the Empress Hotel.

Traveling by the special holiday boat, which will reach here about 10 o'clock from Vancouver, is Dr. J. Paterson of Ottawa, director of the Dominion Meteorological Service, who succeeded Sir Robert Stupart. While in the city he will confer with F. Napier Denison of the Gonzales observatory.

Frank Youngman of Vancouver will arrive here to-morrow with a party of eight and will occupy one of the suites at the Empress.

Numerous golfing parties are scheduled to come over for the holidays, the majority being from Seattle, Tacoma and Portland.

A considerable number of reservations have also been made for Vancouver residents over the holiday period.

CROWD ENJOYS FINE RECITAL

Victoria West Pupils Present Excellent Programme Before Capacity House

Presenting one of the finest programmes given in the district for years, pupils of Victoria West School delighted a capacity audience that crowded the school auditorium to the doors yesterday evening.

The programme, one of great variety, was arranged by the teachers of the school and proved to be one of the most highly organized ever given by the students.

Outstanding was a sketch, "Plantation Days," in which Mrs. E. Kennedy, acting as negro mammy, led a group of talented young pupils in tap dancing, singing, and general mimicry.

Among the troupe were groups of tap dancers, including Florence Foy, Jean Bishop, Grace Hay and Beatrice Stromking, who gave exceptionally fine presentations. Jack Rutherford and M. Walter, as intercomers, brought many a laugh from the audience.

Mrs. Kennedy with her traps, and harmonica, furnished music for the students' dancing.

The singing of the intermediate choir also won high praise from the gathering, as did the physical drill and Bohemian dance groups.

As a curtain raiser the pupils of Grade 2 presented an action song with great effect. This was followed by Dutch dance, after which Grade 2 students, in the costume of pirates, gave an illustrated version of "All Aboard for Beantek Bay."

Many other songs and dances by the pupils of higher classes added to the success of the programme.

At the conclusion of the function, refreshments were served.

In 1924 a great gathering of Canadian medical men was held in Ottawa, delegates being present from England and the United States. One reason given for the presence of English delegates was "the need of fighting the anti-vivisection." The anti-vivisection movement had been started in Canada 2 years before. Vivisection is barbaric, unscientific and useless, but it pays the vivisectionists and their henchmen.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)
Winnipeg, April 17.—The wheat market was quiet and nervous and erratic to-day within a price range of about two cents. Opening prices were about one cent lower and another half-cent loss was recorded during the first period, but later these early losses were regained, the market advancing to fractionally higher than the close last night, only to lose ground again.

There was very little feature to the trade, with a little short covering going on, but the mid-section strength was simply following Chicago, that market having turned strong, but the advance was checked by some good selling that was credited to the pool. There was no interest shown by seaboard to-day and only a small export business was worked overnight from seaboard supplies and was not reflected here.

Trade in the pit to-day was practically all local or commission house business. The forecast was from light to heavy frosts in Kansas to-night and, perhaps the main stabilizing feature, with this market closing on a light Monday morning the selling was light, with nobody caring to take on new commitments. The cash grain market was quiet.

Liverpool did not follow the advance on this side yesterday and closed 1/16 higher to 1/16 lower, while Buenos Ayres was on a level.

The drought situation over the North American continent appears to have been relieved for the time being at least, and further moisture was forecast during the last twenty-four hours in Northern Kansas, where it was most needed.

Coarse grains: These markets continued very quiet, but continue more or less to follow the trend of wheat. Nothing but odd cars are trading in the cash markets, which are very dull and featureless.

Flax continued dull and featureless, trade very light and crushers interests light.

"SALADA" TEA

'Fresh from the gardens'

The Princess and the Perjurer

Allan Hillgarth

She paused to fire three times in rapid succession.

"Curse those swine down there!" she said savagely. "I've got another one, anyway. Oh, my mountaineers!"

"How long will it take the men from the other villages to get here?" I asked gently.

"That's just what I'm worried about. They would be here by noon for certain, if there were no one to stop them, but there are so many Bolsheviks that they may find it impossible. Boris, Krandrind says, can't kill more than ten or twelve of them at the most, and even if twenty or twenty-five are out of action, they still have enough men to hold the village with ease. You see, our people aren't used to fighting in bodies, though they can climb impossible heights and lie all night on the mountain slopes sniping an enemy. In the ordinary way we'd ambush anybody a long way below the village and pick them off without their seeing us at all. But now they're here and so many of them—it worries me. You can't command that platoon either, except from mountains five or six versts away, which is useless. The only way to take it would be by a properly organized attack in force up the easier way, but our people can't do that."

"They can prevent the Reds from escaping, surely?"

"Yes, but what's the good of that? They'll either rush Boris or starve him out."

"And you, too, I suppose?"

"They can't very well rush us. I only hope they try. We'll kill half of them before they get here, and I think the other half would run. If it weren't for Boris, of course, we could get away, but I can't go and leave him, and we are keeping a few of them occupied."

"How do you mean? How could we get away?"

She took her eyes from the sights a moment and looked at me.

"You couldn't," she said slowly, turning back again. "Ah! I'm sure I got one that time! No, you couldn't. I'd forgotten your shoulder. I want to say I'm sorry I did that. I exclaimed, 'Glad! Glad!'"

"Yes, but never mind that now. Do you mean a sound man could escape? Is there a way?"

"Yes, there is one way. This cave goes quite two versts into the mountain, and at one place you can get out near where you threw the sleigh over. The cave portion's easy enough, both to see and to travel, if you've got a light, as you just keep away to the left the whole time. But the path, which is very difficult and often only an inch or two wide. I've been by it once and I never want to go again unless I have to. It's a family secret, but a few of our people know it."

"Does Krandrind know it?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"Only curiosity," I told her. Neither spoke for a while. The firing in the village had died down to a few scattered shots, and the fellows watching us were also less eager to waste ammunition. Occasionally a bullet smacked against the wall or against the cliff overhead, and now and then the Princess saw something to shoot at. But on the whole, business was slack.

"I wish I knew how Boris was getting on," said the Princess fretfully, after a time, "but a mouthful of brandy"

as she spoke, but I set the bottle down hurriedly.

"I can't forgive myself for being the cause of this," I said. "If they weren't after me, they wouldn't have come here."

"They're after us as well," she retorted. "They must have found out what we were doing in Batoum, and of course, it's well known that we always come to this village. They may have found some of my brother's papers."

"What were you doing in Batoum? Why did you come to Georgia at all?"

"Isn't it our country—more than ever now that Russia's as it is? Alexei, who's been here off and on for the last six months, sent us word that he'd found a dangerous Communist activity, and we came to do what we could to counteract it. You see—"

"He fired, then went on as she snapped the lock forward again—you see, Boris and I realize that there can never be a king in Georgia again, but we feel, all the same, that the country's more ours than any one else's and we can't allow Communism to come in and ruin it, if anything we can do will prevent that. We don't think much of the Social-Democratic Government, but it is doing its best, and we're trying to help—independently, of course. Alexei's been our chief agent in the Batoum Province lately. He's a wonderful man, is Alexei Krandrind. There's nothing he couldn't do, if he tried. He calls himself a poet but he's only written two or three poems in his life, all in Persian. I believe they're masterpieces. He's mad, but wonderfully mad!"

"Ah! Through the head that time! The bestest! They'll be sorry when they hear of this. You know, Alexei Krandrind, he's a wonderful man, is Alexei Krandrind. There's nothing he couldn't do, if he tried. He calls himself a poet but he's only written two or three poems in his life, all in Persian. I believe they're masterpieces. He's mad, but wonderfully mad!"

"Well, when Boris and I landed about ten days ago at Poti, we were careful not to let him know we were people who had arrived, as our sympathies are notorious. We came to Batoum and stayed in the house we took you to and we only went out at night, posing as two poets who were followers of Alexei's. Georgia's full of poets, you know. Alexei had a very good system of secret signs—they were so clever that I don't think the local Bolsheviks even suspected their existence, till we were rash enough to seize you. Yet it wasn't altogether rash, because we hoped to get enough information from you to enable us to go to General Mdivani and expose the whole Bolshevik organization in Georgia. You know how that plan broke down, and now I think you know everything."

"There's one thing I don't know," I added slowly, "you don't demand that information from me again last night? Why don't you demand it now?"

"She didn't reply immediately, and I couldn't see her face to judge what she was thinking. I repeated my question."

"Why don't you demand that information now?"

Her answer was another question, asked very quietly.

"What did you say was the name of the Englishman to whom I was so rude at Constantinople?"

I had half guessed it, but it took me a back all the same.

"What was his name?" I stammered.

"Paul Drage."

"Who was his mother?"

"Olga Fedorovna."

"And his mother's only brother?"

"I was taking a mouthful of brandy"

as she spoke, but I set the bottle down hurriedly.

"I can't forgive myself for being the cause of this," I said. "If they weren't after me, they wouldn't have come here."

"Olga Fedorovna."

"And his mother's only brother?"

"Vassili Fedorovitch,"
"And his cousin,"
"Stepan Vassilievitch."

She repeated it.

"Stepan Vassilievitch. And what is your name, sir?"

"I've been called so many."

"Your real name—the name you were born with?"

"Paul Drage."

"Ah! And your second Christian name? You have two, I believe?"

"Stephen."

"I knew it! And so," said the Princess, "you aren't my husband?"

"You told me he was dead. When and how did he die? Tell me all you know."

"If you'll tell me afterwards when and how you found me out."

"I will."

"The Count Ouspensky was murdered at Batoum a few days before General Wrangel evacuated it," I said soberly. "His mistress shot him, because he announced his intention of leaving her, and she disposed of his body herself—how, I don't know. She told me this the night I was kidnapped by you and your brother. Until then I had lived in hourly fear of the Count's arrival."

"This woman—his mistress," she interrupted. "Is that the woman you've been living with in Batoum?"

"Yes, but I never lived with her."

"I know you didn't. Alexei told that out, and—she gave a little laugh that puzzled us. It seemed so unlike Stephen. Yet she was in love with you, wasn't she? She must have been, knowing all the time you were an impostor. Well, you needn't answer. I know what I know, and what I don't I can guess. Perhaps some day I may ask you for all the details if we both live. How did you come to assume my husband's trappings? I suppose your extraordinary resemblance gave you the idea?"

"It was an entire accident. Then, of course, I saw what an opportunity I could make of it."

"You shall tell me the whole story some time. Did you learn anything of value? Could you have answered my question the other night?"

"Easily. I have the whole business at my finger-tips—the revolution here and throughout the whole country, and a number of other things too. But I wasn't going to tell you and then be shot."

"When is the outbreak to take place, she demanded."

"Not for some days," I lied. "Didn't you promise to tell me how and when you found me out?"

"Yes. Wait a minute! Give me that other rifle."

I peeped through a loophole, as she was firing, and I saw several men break out of the passage mouth and drop behind."

"I missed them all," said the Princess, reloading. "It looks as if they're going to try an advance, so we shall have to call the others out soon. But first I'll tell you what you're anxious to know."

"When I saw you on the transport, I was sure you were Stephen. You're so like him that even now I shudder sometimes when I look at you. You mustn't be offended. There is a difference, and I see it more plainly every minute. But to him, a hundred and ninety-nine people out of a thousand would be no difference, were they to see him standing by my side."

Your voice, too, is exactly the same; you laugh in the same way; you use the same gestures sometimes. It's an extraordinary resemblance, in the woods where Mippy and Tippy had gone, one to spin his marbles and the other to shoot his top—or, excuse me. That's wrong, isn't it? Tops are spun and marbles are shot."

"Lots of fun," said Mippy.

"I'm going to make a huge as if I were a fox and I'll see what my little boys do," thought Uncle Wiggily to himself. So he shook the bush and broke a stick. All at once Mippy stopped spinning his top and Tippy stopped shooting marbles and the bunny boys froze into such quietness that, if you had seen them, you would have said they were candy rabbits.

Of course, Mippy and Tippy didn't exactly freeze stiff like an icicle, but when any animal suddenly becomes very quiet, that is called "freezing." They do this so no hungry enemies will notice them.

"Hal! Ha! I fooled you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily and you may be sure Tippy and Mippy were glad to hear their daddy's voice. "You remembered the freezing lesson very well," went on Mr. Longears. "But you must also practice your quiet lesson. I'll hop in there with you and then I'll see how quietly you can hop out. Be careful not to break a stick or rustle a leaf."

But when Mippy went to take the first turn at moving slowly along the path out of the dingy dell he stopped short and said:

"Look, daddy, the Fox is waiting out there to grab me. And on the path are a lot of sticks. I'm sure if I step on the slightest stick it will make a noise and the Fox will hear."

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, "he will. No one could get out that way without making a noise. We must try another path." But when Uncle Wiggily looked, every path leading out of the dingy dell had in it either leaves that would rustle or sticks that would break, thus making a noise which would tell the fox, waiting Fox that rabbits were coming, and he would pounce on them.

"We must fix it so there will be some other noise so loud," said Uncle Wiggily. "That the Fox will hear only that and will not hear the noise of rustling leaves or breaking sticks. I will give you a crow lesson. Crows, you know, are very noisy birds, almost as noisy as blue jays. And when a lot of crows are overhead in the sky they make so much noise that a rabbit can crack sticks and rustle leaves and no Fox will hear him running away. So now we must get some crows to make loud noises for us and, under cover of those noises we can escape."

"But where are the crows?" asked Tippy.

"I don't see any up in the sky," said Mippy.

"I'll show you how to call the crows," answered Uncle Wiggily. "And if the umbrella doesn't fall all of a sudden fold its ribs shut and let the rain spill all over the goldfish. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily fooling the Fox."

From being a cathedral, a church at Bradwell-on-Sea, England, was converted into a lighthouse, and eventually became a barn.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Crow Lesson

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD R. GARIS.

Tippy and Mippy were so happy playing with their tops, that they almost forgot about practicing the lessons that their daddy, Uncle Wiggily, had taught them. Tippy had a top his daddy had shown him how to make from a round, brown pine cone and Tippy spun his top in the sunning every time he came home from school.

Mippy had fun playing with the marbles his daddy had shown him how to make out of brown clay baked hard in the sun. Clay is a clean, sticky sort of dirt, much different from mud. Clay cannot be found everywhere, but when it is found many bricks and marbles can be made from it.

"But Mippy and Tippy should not play with their tops every time they come hopping home from school," said Uncle Wiggily as he saw his two little rabbit boys, with the top and marbles, skipping off to a little dingy dell in the woods. "They must not forget to practice the quiet lesson I taught them the other day. I think I'll just help them to remember that they must practice."

So Uncle Wiggily softly followed Tippy and Mippy without letting them see him or hear him. Mr. Longears could slip along very secretly and quietly when he wished. Rabbits must be able to do this to keep away from the Fox, Wolf or Bobcat.

"Oh, my top is spinning!"

The quiet lesson which Uncle Wiggily wanted Mippy and Tippy to practice had been taught them so the rabbit boys could slip through the woods or across the fields without treading on any dry stick, which might break with a noise like a pop gun. And if a Fox heard this popping noise he would know a rabbit was near and would catch him.

Uncle Wiggily showed his little rabbit boys, and his girls, also how to move so quietly that they could not make even a dry leaf rustle and so let the Bobcat know he might catch a bunny.

Soon Uncle Wiggily reached the dingy dell, or cleared place, in the woods where Mippy and Tippy had gone, one to spin his marbles and the other to shoot his top—or, excuse me. That's wrong, isn't it? Tops are spun and marbles are shot."

"This is lots of fun; isn't it?" said Tippy.

"Lots of fun," said Mippy.

"I'm going to make a huge as if I were a fox and I'll see what my little boys do," thought Uncle Wiggily to himself. So he shook the bush and broke a stick. Should Parents Continue to Give Money to Their Children After They Are Grown?—Wife Who Turned Quitter in Misfortune. Daily Lunch vs. Damaged Reputation.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What do you think about giving money to your children—both married and single? MOTHER M.

Answer.—I believe in parents giving to their children in accordance with their means while they are still alive and can teach their children to use money wisely and well, instead of making their sons and daughters wait until they are dead for the money that they justly feel is partly theirs by right.

By this I do not mean that fathers and mothers should impoverish themselves to give to their children. Far from it. The most fatal and tragic mistake that parents can make is to make themselves dependent upon their children. We have all seen fathers turn over their business to their sons on the understanding that the boys were to take care of father and we have seen father treated with less consideration than an office boy, his opinions flouted, his judgment derided and a few dollars doled out to him as if it were charity. We have seen mother an unwelcome guest in the very house that she has given to her daughter.

Indeed, the only security that old age has of being considered and petted and made much of is to hold on to its pocketbook. For between father and mother who are pensioners on their children and father and mother who have money to give there is a vast gulf fixed.

Nor do I mean that parents should encourage their children in extravagance and idleness. Certainly the parents do their children a deadly wrong when they teach them to be spenders and wasters and idlers. There is nothing that makes for virtue like not having the price of sin, and undoubtedly weak and indulgent parents who give their children too much money to spend are responsible for most of the pyrotechnics of the flaming youth of to-day. It is father who furnishes the high-powered cars and pays for the gasoline of the boys and girls who are scorching down the road to destruction.

But when children are of the right sort—and most of them are—when they are sober-minded and industrious and willing to work and do their part in the world, then I think it is the parents' duty to hold out a helping hand and give them a boost over the rough places in the beginning of their careers.

Of course, many people think otherwise. They say that when we were young we had nobody to help us, we had to struggle and almost starve and do without all the luxuries we craved, and it is up to our children to stand on their own feet and make their own fight. It makes men and women of them. Not long ago I heard a rich father say this to his daughter and she made this very pertinent reply:

"That is all true, father, but you forget one thing and that is that you had never had the luxuries to which we are accustomed. Your father was poor and you were used to doing without things. You were not used to living in a luxurious house and having servants to wait upon you and fine clothes to wear and to go to places of amusement and having good cars to ride in.

"If you expected us to live like poor people after we were grown and started out for ourselves, you should have reared us that way. You shouldn't have cultivated the habits and tastes of the rich in us and then leave us flat. What you have never had you don't miss. It is doing without the things you are used to that makes you miserable."

I think that girl was right and that the man who brings his daughter up with silk tastes and chignon habits should help to provide the silk and chignon for her after she is married. He certainly shouldn't expect a poor young man to do it all and, therefore, I think that every father who possibly can should either give his daughters a dowry when they marry or continue their allowances.

And I believe that every father who can should help his sons to get into business. It saves them so many long, hard years, so much of the anxiety that kills the joy of youth and eats into the soul.

And I cannot see why well-to-do parents do not want to give to their children, just for the selfish enjoyment they would get out of seeing their children happy and prosperous and able to enjoy life. Furthermore, they must know that their children, being human, are bound to resent their parents' niggardliness toward them and to feel very differently toward a generous helpful father and mother than they do toward those who can only be pried loose from their checkbook by death.

I would hate to think that my children were looking forward to my funeral as a pleasant occasion whose result would enable them to have all the things they were longing for.

We can't think of a father and mother sitting down to a feast while their children stood half starved outside of the door, yet, in effect, that is what the parents do who let their children struggle on through years of hardship while they have plenty, who let their children perhaps die for the rest, for the peace of mind, for the medical attention that would save their lives, but which father and mother are too stingy to give them.

DEAR MISS DIX.—I think you should be apologetic for your wife having to work. That is what I heard a perfectly healthy woman say to her husband the other night and, incidentally, she was a woman who had worked before she was married. The husband has been ill, which is the occasion for her having to go to work, but he is regaining his health. Now, here are a man and woman who took the same vows to cherish each other in sickness and in health. Had she been the one whose health failed she would have expected him to provide for her as a matter of course, but when the story is reversed—that's another question. Now that women have become emancipated, is there any reason for a man to feel apologetic because his wife had to go back to work when his health failed? DIBLUTIONED.

Answer.—I'll say not, and the wife is a rotten sport if she feels that way about it. She should be proud and thankful that she is able to take care of her husband in his misfortune.

And most women do feel like that. It is not often that a wife turns quitter in the face of misfortune. Most women stick to their husbands through thick and thin. Think how many wives you have known who have nursed men through years and years of invalidism with a patience and gentleness that never fails! As a rule you will find more women than men sitting by sick beds.

One of the finest features about the emancipation of women is that it fits them to substitute as bread winners if their husbands are incapacitated and thus give the family a double bulwark of defence. For the woman who has a trade and has earned her own living before marriage is not in the helpless position of the old-fashioned woman who knew no way to make a dollar and she should hold it a privilege and a glory to be able to step into the breach and do a man's part when the necessity arises.

That is what we older women, who fought and bled and died to gain women the right of entrance to the commercial world, struggled for, and she is letting us down and making us feel that we fought for nothing when she whines over having to take care of a sick husband.

Shame on her.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX.—What is your opinion of a young woman in an office who goes out to lunch with a co-worker who is a married man with a wife and three children? It is causing much gossip. JUSTICE.

I think she is a very foolish young woman who is paying a high price for her lunch. For no matter whether she has an affair with the married man or not, she will be scandalized.

To guide for a girl in such a case is to do as she would be done by, and she knows mighty well that she wouldn't want her husband going out to lunch every day with another woman.

DOROTHY DIX.

Prepare Correct Key To Historic Picture

Dominion Archives Officials Removing Errors About
"Fathers of Confederation"

Canadians Hereafter Will Have Authentic List of Names of Figures

Canadian Press.
Ottawa, April 17.—Because of the many conflicting keys to Robert Harris' celebrated painting, "Fathers of Confederation," which are current in different parts of Canada, Dr. A. G. Doughty, curator of the Dominion Archives, has undertaken to complete a correct one. The painting, the original of which hung in the old Parliament Buildings destroyed by fire in 1915, has been copied and distributed to schools and homes all over Canada.

The painting depicts the thirty-four representatives who gathered at the Quebec Conference and from whose deliberations came Confederation in 1867. Keys contain the names of the representatives.

MINIATURE IN EXISTENCE.
Although the original was destroyed, a charcoal miniature had been presented to the Archives some years before. It is from this draft and from old pictures of the men that the authentic key is being drafted. Great care is being taken by Dr. Doughty and his assistants to see the new key will be correct and much time has been consumed in hunting through old documents and family albums to find photographs of the men.

When completed it is proposed to broadcast the new key throughout Canada.

WESTERN PICTURE
AT THE COLUMBIA

Flappers and leap year proposals were not prevalent in the United States right after the Civil War, but nevertheless they existed, according to the story of "The Glorious Trail." Ken Maynard's latest western feature now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

In one scene Gladys McConnell, who plays the leading feminine role opposite Ken, makes believe she is engaged to him in order to thwart the intentions of another man. Ken is entirely unaware of the girl's design. On walking into the stronghold of the enemy he is disconcerted when a beautiful young lady throws her arms around his neck and calls him "darling."

GUN-PLAY GIVES THRILLS IN VARIETY
STAGE PRODUCTION

The great west, with its romance, color and glamour is portrayed in the country-drama "Sundown on Honeymoon Ranch," presented this week at the Variety Theatre.

An automobile with a party of modern wealthy easterners to Arizona, stands them in the middle of the cattle country, with cowboys and six-shooters.

Jack Norton, sophisticated young easterner, finds himself a rival of Fred Brim, swartering foreman of Honeymoon Ranch, for the hand of beautiful Molly Bedford. It is no rivalry of sedate New York city drawing rooms, however, but the two-fisted rivalry of the virile west, in which gun-play inevitably plays a part.

LARGE GROUP OF SINGERS PERFORM IN PLAYHOUSE FILM

J. Harold Murray, who starred in "Rio Rita" in New York for two and a half years, and Norma Terris, leading woman of the musical comedy, "Show Boat" on Broadway, sing the principal roles in "Married in Hollywood," Fox Movietone all talking, all singing Western love song romance, under Marcel Silver's direction. A chorus of 160 voices and sixty dancers compose the ensemble. Walter Catlett, well known on the musical comedy stage, plays an outstanding comedy part. "Married in Hollywood" is the current attraction at the Playhouse Theatre.

UNUSUAL COMEDY COMING TO ROYAL
ALL NEXT WEEK

When the Royal Theatre reopens on Easter Monday, patrons will be offered a charming comedy entitled, "The Man From Toronto." This play was a huge success in London, where it ran for a year. It is somewhat different from the usual type of comedy and has a very good story as well as a wealth of witty lines.

It will be played by nearly all the cast of the English players and is produced by Gordon McLeod. The scene of the play is particularly attractive, an old English cottage by the sea.

Minister, Run-down In Health, Gains 7 lbs. In 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes: "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give myself a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I gained 7 pounds and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny," tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broom-stick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when yeast is ironized is it more effective—for iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating. No harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist to-day and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, your money back instantly from manufacturer. (Adv.)

Former Sheriff And Others Are Tried For Bribery

Oakland, Cal., April 17.—Burton F. Becker, recently ousted as sheriff of Alameda County, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday along with former Deputy Sheriff L. Davis and Cronwell L. Ormsby, Los Angeles attorney, formerly of Oakland, on two counts, each charging bribery and conspiracy to bribe.

The indictment was based on evidence purporting to show the three received in return for protection to operators of Chinese lotteries. Davis is now on trial with four others on an indictment charging bribery and conspiracy in connection with alleged protection given bootlegging establishments and faces trial with Ormsby April 23 on another indictment charging conspiracy and bribery in connection with receiving bribes from operators from a liquor still. Ball for Becker was set at $5,000 and Ormsby's present bail of $5,000 on the other indictment was allowed to stand. Ball for Davis was set at $1,000 additional to that already posted.

The four now on trial with Davis are J. J. Collier and A. R. Shurtliff, former deputy sheriffs, and Frank and Jack Gardella, alleged Livermore bootleggers.

NEGRO KILLED IN FIGHT WITH KANSAS POLICE

Kansas City, April 17.—A self-styled negro mystic was shot to death here yesterday among his voodoo charms after a shot-punctuated two-hour siege by twenty-five Kansas City policemen.

One policeman was injured by a shotgun charge from the humble "voodoo temple," a shanty on the banks of the Blue River near the east city limits.

The negro, Tom Sims, recently discharged by a steel company for preaching voodooism to other negro employees, was reported by neighbors to have been shooting at ghosts the last few nights, yesterday he barricaded himself in his hotel and shot through the windows at passers-by.

The first charge penetrated the home of Frank Crawford, endangering Mrs. Crawford and some of her five children. Crawford telephoned police. Two officers found the negro crouched at a window beneath a festoon of herbs hung from the rafters, a shotgun across his knees.

Sims was ordered to surrender "No," he shouted, leveling his gun. Patrolman E. C. Britton dodged, escaping the charge, and then fired one shot through the window at Sims.
